HEROISM OF DEAD MARINES MEMORIALIZED BY NATION

Simple Dignity Marks Ceremony in New York—Most Impressive Funeral Pageant Since the Spanish War—Thousands Stand Shoulder to Shoulder in a Community of Grief, as Funeral Procession Makes Its Way Through Streets.

New York, May 11.—New York joined the nation today in memorializing, with simple dignity, the heroism of the 19 blue jackets and marines, who gave their lives at Vera Cruz. As the most impressive funeral pageant since the Spanish war started from the battery to the Brooklyn navy yard it was as if the whole population of the city was there. The people were still, standing shoulder to shoulder in a community of grief. It was a spectacle of a city strangely transfigured and lifted out of itself.

In the line of mourners that followed the artillery caissons bearing the dead were the chiefs of State and city government and many more distinguished men of nearly every calling; but every eye in the throngs that lined the way, turned first to the carriage where President Wilson rode close behind the last funeral car. The President came from Washington during the night and stood as the marines fired their parting salute at the Brooklyn navy yard and the navy bugler sounded "taps" that proclaimed the end of the ceremony.

On the stand with the President at the navy yard were relatives of the dead sailors and marines, mothers and sisters and wives, but in all the throng of mourners, none seemed more touched by the spirit of the day than the man whose word sent the lads of the navy to fight for their country's honor at Vera Cruz.

And to the President was left the privilege of voicing the nation's grief and the nation's belief that those who died in the performance of duty had done for their country a service not to be measured by their individual deeds.

A Feeling of Pride.

"The feeling that is uppermost" he said, "is one of profound grief, and yet, there is mixed with that grief a profound pride that they should have gone as they did, and if I may say it out of my heart, a touch of envy of those who were permitted so quietly, so nobly, to do their duty.

The head of the nation, looked out over the thousands massed about the coffins on the parade ground and his vioce shook with emotion as he declared his creed.

"We have gone down to Mexico," he said, "to serve mankind if we can find a way. We do not want to fight the Mexicans; we want to serve the Mexicans."

There was a wistful note in his voice, as he added: "I never was under fire but I fancy there are some things just as hard to do as to go under fire. I fancy it is just as hard to do your duty when men are sneering at you as when they are shooting at you. When they shoot at you, they can only take your life; when they sneer at you, they can wound your heart."

Fram a bird's view, the multitude along the route of the funeral cortege presented the picture of a vast human stream connecting two arms of the sea. Muffled voices, soft spoken commands by military officers the melancholy tolling of the Trinity church bell, emphasized a hush that had fallen over a city of noises.

The dead were landed by the tugs Traffic and Correction early in the morning and lay in state in the Battery Park plaza for more than an hour before the procession started. There were 17 coffins. The other two victims of Mexican snipers, died after they had left Vera Cruz with the dead. The police escort headed the cortege and was followed by the naval battalions from the Wyoming and Texas. Then came the 17 gun caissons carrying the dead.

The Procession.

Each caisson was drawn by four horses, astride two of which rode members of the First and Second regiments of the Field Artillery. There was in addition one mounted police escort for each caisson. Four sailors on eash side acted as pall bearers. These men tanned from recent service in Vera Cruz had been called to New York especially for the service in memory of their dead comrades.

Directly behind the caissons which stretched out their single file were the carriages of the President, Governor Glynn, Secretary Daniels, Mayor Mitchel and other distinguished guests. The presence of the President in the procession was a surprise for it had been announced that he would proceed direct from the Pennsylvania station to the navy yard.

All along the route the street was black with spectators. Windows and and roofs, half completed steel frames of buildings, all were crowded. There were thousands of policemen, one every ten feet held the crowd back on the sidewalk. During the entire cermony there was not a sugestion of disorder.

Eulogy of The Dead.

At the procession entered City Hall Place the voices of 500 children rose to meet them. The children sang "Nearer My God To Thee."

Mayor Mitchel briefly eulogized the dead and laid upon one of the cassions a wreath of flowers, symbolic of the city' respect. After this brief halt, the cortege resumed its measured progress to Manhattan Bridge and over this to the navy yard. The quiet restraint that had characterized the crowds in the streets gave way as the procession proceeded to the east-side and broke i nto a storm of applause. Here it seemed that the presence of the President eclipsed the grief of the occasion.

In the naval parade ground the demonstration found a small physical compass. Less than 10,000 were able to pack themselves into the enclosure and face the stand where stood the President with bared head. Mayor Mitchell was at his right, and Secretary Daniels of the navy at his left.

With sharp precision the blue jackets, their white hats catching the dull sunlight drew up into military formation before the stand. At the same t me the 17 caissons, draped with flags, and banked with flowers contributed by the sailer-comrades of the dead, were laid directly in front of the stand.

A moment later the crowd was permitted to enter and immediately it covered the entire field.

The band of the battleship Texas played softly "Nearer My God To Thee" and the naval chaplain, Caissard, began his invocation. In referring to the dead heroes, he prayed it would not be necessary to make a further sacrifice on the altar of patriotism.

Names of Men Who Died.

Secretary Daniels then turned to the President and read the names of the 19 men, in whose honor the funeral was held and delievered a brief eulogy.

Secretary Daniels said:

"My President, I have the solemn honor to report to you as commanded-in-chief of the United States Navy, the names of the15 sailors and four marines who recently at Vera Cruz sealed with blood their devotion to the flag of their country. All were in the prime of vigorous young manhood. Of the 19 who answered their last roll call with a cheerful 'aye, aye, sir', 13 were 22 or under. The oldest was 36, the youngest 19. There average age was but a little over 23. They were young and suddenly beheld life's morn decline. They give not only all they were but all they had.

"The first to make the noblest contribution that a man may give was George Poinsett of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He was in his twentieth vear and served as a seaman on the United States steamship Florida.

"I hand you, sir, the names of these heroes recorded high in the national roll of honor that they may be preseerved in the archives of our republic. Their services will be held in lasting remembrance by a grateful people."

President Wilson stood with head bowed. His deeply lined face showed the grief and solemnity of the occasion, but in general his appearance gave no indication of the recent strain at Washington. He delivered his eulogy of the dead in a low, clear voice, that carried to the farthest part of the field. It was followed by a prayer by Rabbi Stephen Wise, and a benediction by John Chidwick, chaplain of the old battleship Main.

Sounding of Taps.

Three volleys fired by the marines across the consecrated dead, the final melody of "taps" and the funeral services were completed. They had lasted a little less than an hour.

During this time, the oppressive heat proved too much for several spectators who fainted and had to be carried away on stretchers. One marine was among them.

For half an hour, after the service the caissons lay as they had been placed, in front of the stand where all could view them, then they were carr ed into the naval barracks. Three were taken back to the Montana which steamed out of the harbor for Boston late in the day. Relatives claimed the three bodies of those whose home was New York and preparations were made to send the other bodies to their separate destinations.

President Wilson's Speech.

The full text of the President's speech follows:

"Mr. Secretary: I know that the feelings which characterize all who stand about me, and the whole nation at this hour are not feelings which can be expressed suitably in terms of attempted oratory or eloquence. They are things too deep for ordinary speech. For my own part I have a singular mixture of feelings. The feeling that is uppermost is one of profound grief that these lads should have had to go to their death. And yet there is mixed with that grief a profound pride that they should have gone as they did, and, if I may say it out of my heart, a touch of envy of those who were permitted so quietly, so nobly to do their duty.

"Have you thought of it, men? Here is the roster of the navy, officers and enlisted men and marines, and suddenly into the firmament of out of the list, men who have gone suddenly into the firmamene of memory, where we shall always see their names shine, not because they called upon us to admire them, but because they served us without asking any questions and in the perfor-

SILLIMAN STILL HELD BY MEXICANS

Statement as to His Safety Absolutely False.

WAS MEANT TO DECEIVE.

AMERICAN IS MISSING

Minister of War at Mexico City to French Ambassador No Americans Were Under Arrest. Several Others Held.

Employed in Mexican Bank and as Newspaper Correspondent—Continued Sending Out News After Others Left.

Washington, May 11.—While peace negotiations marked time pending formal sittings of the South American mediators which begin Monday on Canadian soil, the mediators and officials of the State Department here today were occupied with several serious phases of the Mexican situation demanding immediate attention.

Secretary Bryan called at the Argentine legation late in the day and spent two hours in conference with the South American envoys, discussing the continued detention of John R. Silliman, American vice consul at Saltillo by Mexican Federals, the Lobos Island incident, and the case of the five South Americans under arrest at Vera Cruz for firing upon United States sailors and marines.

Mr. Bryan insisted that the release of Silliman must be brought about at once. When asked about the matter later, he would not say what would happen if the vice consul were kept in prison, but he was gravely emphatic in announcing the government's determination to have him freed.

While the official representatives of the Huerta government were preparing to take leave of their revolution torn country at vera Cruz, and while an American general with armed forces of the United States waited at one of the gateways to Mexico City, the United States government officials announced its representatives in mediation negotiations before the South American triumvirate at Niagara Falls, Ont., next Monday. Justice Joseph Rucker Lamar, of the United States Supreme Court, and Frederick W. Lehmann, former solicitor general, were chosen by President Wilson as the American representatives. From Mexico City are hastening forward Augustine Rodriguez, Emilio Rabasa and Luis Elguero, as Huerta's representatives.

RAILROADS OBJECT TO THE ANTI-TRUST BILL

Mr. Thom Before Senate Commerce Committee.

Not Opposed to Prohibition Against Interlocking Directorates—Object to All Trades Under One Bill.

Washington, Mayy 11.—"I think if you make this bill retroactive you will give the railroad world the greatest shock it has felt in years. The minute you make this act retroactive and apply it to relations heretofore established you menace almost every important railroad in this country."

This was the prediction today of Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the Union Pacific board, in criticising the Administration anti-trust bill before the Senate Inter-State Commerce committee.

Judge Lovett attacked the bill's provision prohibiting stock ownership by one carrier of another.

"I don't believe that there is an important system in the country," he said, "that would not be disrupted unless it made the proper application and showed that there was not such competition between them as is forbidden by this bill."

Judge Lovett said many roads secured stock ownership of others years ago. He declared that bill should not interfere with these, but be confined to the future.

A. P. Thom, general counsel for the Southern Railway, saaid that he and other railroad men protesting against the bill represent 150,000 miles of road. He declared the railroad problem should be studied by itself and regulatory laws enacted separately and not in a general trade commission measure such as the committee is considering.

Mr. Thom objected to the provision designed to prevent bankers connected with the fiscal operations of a railroad from being members of its directing board. He declared that millions of dollars are invested in American railroad securities by foreigners who look upon the presence of these bankers as a guarantee of the soundness of their investment. He criticised the provision requiring stock issues at par and asserted that few railroads could issue stock at par and not many could issue bonds at par.

Mr. Thom said he was not opposed to the prohibition against interlocking directorates, or stock ownership, but would permit them when there would follow no violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Washington, May 11.—The Supreme court today announced no important railroad cases. The court took a recess u ntil May 25th.

MEXICO CITY IS REPORTED QUIET

Large Number of Men and Boys Drill in Streets.

Vera Cruz, May 11.—From Mexico City came late reports of quiet business conditions, but of large numbers of men and boys drilling in the streets. A few nights ago a mob gathered before the Brazilian legation and demanded that Luis D'Antin, an attache of the American embassy, who had taken refuge there, be delivered over. Threats were made to kill him.

The Brazilian minister notified the State Department and added that he would only surrender D'Antin if he were overpowered by the mob. The antipathy to the attache is due to the fact that he is the only American official left in the capital and because of his activity in relieving the distress of American non-combatants.

So far as is known no measures have been taken to fortify the capital. At Guadaloupe, which is a strategic point on the Mexican Railway entering the city, there are no signs of fortifications. The Federals, however, are taking steps to provision Puebla, about midway between Vera Cruz and the capital on the lines of the Inter-Oceanic Railroad. Gen. Navareyte is said to be holding outposts east of Puebla watching the American lines.

A rumor has been current in the capital that in case Villa drives the Federals out, Huerta is planning to make a stand at Puebla, which has military advantages for defense.

American Missing.

An American named Doster, formerly a correspondent for a New York paper, but latterly employed in a bank at the capital, is missing and is supposed to have been imprisoned by the Federals. Doster resumed his newspaper work when the other correspondents at Mexico City went to Vera Cruz. His quarters were searched and a secret code was found to which the authorities attached much importance. He was arrested at the time but was released under orders to report to the police at a certain hour daily. He failed to keep this agreement and the police began a search for him and; it is believed, succeeded in finding him.

Almost all the American doctors in Mexico City refuse to leave their patients. The American hospital is open and in it are American nurses and several American patients. The nurses were all trained in the United States and they are standing by the doctors. The only likelihood of their leaving lies in the possibility of the taking over of the hospital by the Mexican authorities, a contingency which might arise owing to the crowding of the native hospitals by wounded and sick soldiers.

The British legation has sent out another notification to all British subjects in Mexico urging the advisability of leaving the country. Most of them are heeding the warning which is being spread through the interior by couriers. The censorship over messages to outside points is being maintained.

Offered Every Courtesy.

Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, accompanied by his chief of staff and his flag lieutenant, today went on board the Kronprinzessin Cecilie and formally offered any courtesy within his power to Emilio Rabasa, Augustin Rodriguez and Luis Elguero, the three commissioners who are to represent Huerta at the mediation conference at Niagara Falls, Canada.

The Mexican commissioners replied there was nothing they needed.

The Kronprinzessin Cecilie will probably sail early tomorrow.

Whiffen Released.

Walter C. Whiffen, correspondent of the Associated Press, who was arrested by the Mexican authorities on his arrival from Vera Cruz at Mexico City on Thursday evening and released on Saturday, returned today to Vera Cruz.

A. J. Sutton, the Washington newspaper photographer, who was arrested and released at the same time, was taken from the train at Cordoba on his way from the capital to this city.

Zapata a Menace.

Washington, May 11.—Persistent reports from Mexican sources that the resolutionary leader Zapata, in the southern part of the Republic is in immediate menace to Huerta and to foreigners in Mexico City, ledt the State Department today to seek all possible information on the subject. Foreign ambassadors and ministers here, whose countries have diplomatic representatives in Mexico City, were appealed to by the department to investigate the alarming rumor concerning Zapata's threats and the actual movements of his bandit forces. The department also asked the foreign diplomats for information as to actual conditions in Mexico City, particularly the rumors that Huerta's position is rapidly weakening.

Some of the diplomats here have received reports within the last few days in which no mention of Zapata was made, but messages from another source gave alarming information regarding Zapata's activities expressing fear for the safety of foreign residents in Huerta's capital.

New York, May 11.—Col. John C. Calhoun Mayo, Democratic National Committeeman from Kentucky, died today at the local hospital where he had been ill since April 25th. Col. Mayo was brought here for treatment after blood transfusion at Cincinnati had failed.

SHRINERS GATHER FOR ANNUAL EVENT

Over Thirty Thousand Members Reach Atlanta.

OPENING BALL GIVEN

In Honor of William W. Irwin, Imperial Potentate, and His Wife—Dancing Floors Built in the Streets.

Atlanta, Ga., May 11.—Mingled thousands tonight paid tribute here to the "Mystic Shrine." Through the streets of the city, converted into dazzling lanes of light, scores of patrols from the various temples of the order made informal marches while countless bands filled the air with music.

It was estimated tonight that more than 30,000 Shriners had arrived for the annual meeting of the Imperial Council. Special trains arrived throughout the day, pouring additional throngs into the maw of the city, in addition to the more than 16,000 who had arriven yesterday.

No business sessions of the Imperial Council were held today. The only formal event of the day was a grand reception and ball tonight in honor of William W. Irwin, the imperiol potentate, and his wife.

Mr. Irwin arrived early today from his home at Wheeling, W. Va., escorted by the Shriner patrol from that city. A salute of 21 guns was fired in his honor.

Portions of the downtown streets tonight were converted into dancing floors and thousands participated in the informal open air dancing. Six bands from the Shriners' patrols were detailed to furnish music. Dancing continued until far past midnight.

Mayor Woodward today declared tomorrow a civil holiday here in honor of the two parades of the Shriners. In the morning the patrols and bands will escort the Imperiol Potentate from his hotel to the place of meeting of the Imperial Council and at night there will be a parade of all visiting Shriners. Arrangements have been made to accommodate 40,000 persons in the pageant.

Selection of a convention city for 1915, decision on applications for new temples and election of a Supreme outer guard are the chief matters to come before the business sessions of the Imperial Council. San Francisco and Seattle are asking for the meeting next year.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION OPENS

Annual Meeting Begins Today at Nashville.

Matters of Vital Interest to the Denomination Will Come up During Session—Negro Seminery in South.

Nashville, Tenn., May 11.—Matters of vital interest to the Baptist denomination will come before the Southern Baptist Convention which will open its annual session in Nashville Wednesday. The convention sermon will be delivered by Dr. George W. McDaniel, of Richmond, Va.

Baptists here believe that Dr. Lansing Burrows, of Augusta, Ga., will be elected president of the convention. Dr. Burrows has been secretary for 32 years. The formal transfer of the handsome Baptist Sunday school building located in this city, will be made to the convention Saturday.

The reports of the efficiency committee and the committee on the establishment of a negro seminary in the South will be made to this convention. The former committee was appointed last year and will report on the general efficiency of the Baptist church in the South.

It is reported that the question of giving the vote to women in the counsels of the church will come up for discussion tomorrow. The question of missions will occupy a large part of the programme. Three years ago the Baptist pledged themselves to raise $1,250,000 for missions, over and above their regular contributions, to celebrate what is known as "the Judson Jubilate."

Another matter to come before the convention is the propriety of having Sunday school lessons for Baptist Sunday School separate from the International Lessons now used.

The convention represent 23,832 churches, according to the church census of 1912, with a membership of 2,456,296.

ASK FOR INVESTIGATION.

Of Federal Judge of Northern District in West Virginia.

Washington, May 11.—A resolution directing the House Judiciary Committee to investigate the conduct of Judge Alston G. Dayton, of the Northern District of West Virginia, was introduced in the House today by Representative Neely, of West Virginia. The resolution cites charges made in a petition signed by more than 9,000 West Virginia citizens. The charges relate to actions of Judge Dayton in labor cases.

WILMINGTON IS SELECTED FOR BRANCH RESERVE BANK

Organization Committee Designates the Murchison National to Execute Certificate for North Carolina's Branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of the Fifth District, at Richmond—Port City Wins Over State's Other Leading Cities for Honor.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., May 11.—Wilmington gets the only branch reserve bank in North Carolina for the Fifth Reserve District.

This was made certain today when the Organization Committee designated the Murchison National Bank to execute the organization certificate for North Carolina of the Richmond Reserve Bank.

While not officially stated, it is understood that the selection of the Murchison as a branch of the Reserve Bank of Richmond will mean that a number of additional clerks will have to be employed by the Murchison bank.

These men, however, will be named by the president of the bank, and not through Washington. P. R. A.

Every citizen of Wilmington will rejoice over the selection of this city as the location of the only branch of the Federal Reserve Bank in North Carolina. That the efforts of the different organizations here, led by a central committee of which Mr. Hugh MacRae was chairman, would be successful was confidently expected by many who knew and were thoroughly familiar with the advantages that this city had to offer for a branch reserve bank, but even the most optimtistic did not expect a definite decision on the matter for some time yet.

Wilmington wins out in the fight for the branch Reserve Bank over Raleigh, Charlotte, Winston-Salem and other North Carolina cities which have been making a hard contest to land the institution, and the decision on the part of the Reserve Board is influenced soleiy by the merits of the city and the many endorsements that Wilmington has received from all over the territory to be served.

The fight here has been going on ever since the announcement of the locations of the 12 Reserve Banks. North Carolina is in the Fifth District of the Federal Reserve System, and the bank for this district is located at Richmond. The announcement from Washington last night stated that Wilmington would get the only branch bank for North Carolina. Whether or not South Carolina or some of the other States also in the territory will get branch banks is not yet known.

Mr. MacRae and the members of the central committee, backed by the commercial organizations and the cooperation of the public spirited citizens, have done splendid work in getting the bank for Wilmington, and they are due a vote of thanks from all loyal to Wilmington's interests.

The selection of Wilmington as the location of the branch bank for North Carolina will mean that the city will not only continue as the financial center of the State, but that its strength and influence in this respect will be vastly increased, a fact which will mean much in the promotion of new industries and the commercial development of the city from all standpoints.

Machinery for Final Steps.

Washington, May 11. — Machinery for one of the final steps in the installation of the new banking system was put in motion today when the Reserve Bank Organization Board named five banks in each of the twelve districts to execute organization certificates for the Federal Reserve Banks. When that shall have been completed and a board of dirctors organized in each district, the comptroller of the currency will issue a charter, causing the banks to begin business.

The committee announced that every effort was being made to expedite the organization, so that it might be completed by August 1. Each member bank in a district will name electors, and select candidates for directors who are to be divided into A and B classes. Three directors of each class will be elected for each additional.

The committee's statement tonight said:

"By the end of the month it is hoped that the committee will receive nominations for Class A and Class B, directors and the names of the district reserve electors elected by the subscribing banks so that the vote may be taken early in June.

"Forms for use in reporting election of district reserve electors and the nominating of candidates will be mailed to the several banks as soon as the organization certificates have been received and filed. Every effort is being made by the committee to expedite this election so that the board of of directors of each Federal Reserve Bank may be organized in ample time to elect officers, select employees and banking quarters and to place the banks in actual operation by August 1. Banks to execute the organization certificates in Districts Five and Six are as follows:

District No. 5—Federal Reserve Bank, of Richmond.

Maryland — Merchants'-Mechanics' National Bank, Baltimore; North Carolina, Murchison National Bank, Wilmington; South Carolina Palmetto National Bank, Columbia; Virginia, First National Bank, Roanoke; West Virginia, Citizens' National Bank Charleston.

District No. 6—Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta.

Alabama, First National Bank, Montgomery; Florida, First National Bank, Tampa; Louisiana, Hibernian National Bank, New Orleans; Mississippi First National Bank, Jackson; Tennessee, First National Bank, Chattanooga.

METHODISTS CREATE TWO NEW CONFERENCES

Known as Mexican Border and Central Mexico.

Re-Draft of Memorial from North Georgia Conference in Reference to Vanderbilt University Presented.

Oklahoma City, May 11.—Two annual conferences to be known as the Mexican border conference and the Central Mexico conference were created; a proposal to establish an Indian conference to have jurisdiction over the extreme Western States was rejected; resolutions were received and the delegates engaged in a lengthy preliminary debate at today's session of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, meeting here in quadrennial session.

A resolution was adopted urging the necessity of additional chaplains in the United States army and navy.

The ruling of Bishop E. E. Hoss, who presided today, that minority committee reports must be submitted to the whole committee before presentation to the conference, brought about a discussion on rules. An appeal from the ruling by the chair was not sustained by a vote. Considerable of the day's session was taken up in debate and disposal of several matters planned for today was deferred until tomorrow.

Rev. H. M. DuBose, of Atlanta, presented to the conference a re-draft of the memorial from the North Georgia conference asking the body, in

Supreme Court Decision in Gompers Case.

Barred by Statute of Limitations is Ruling Handed Down by Higher Court in Case of the Labor Leaders.

Washington, May 11.—Ending years of bitter legal fighting the Supreme Court today set aside the sentence imposed by the District of Columbia Supreme Court upon Samuel Gompers, Frank Morrison and John Mitchell, for alleged contempt of court in 1907, for violating injunctions against alleged boycotting of the Bucks Stove & Range Company.

In 1911 the Supreme Court set aside sentences against Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison because they had been prosecuted under criminal instead of civil statutes. The next day new proceedings were instituted, but that Washington, N. C. May 11.—Today's events in the trial of Joshua Mills, now in progress in this city, were chiefly confined to the examination of witnesses, both for the State and defendant.

Mills took the stand about 12 o'clock and made a statement as to the fight. He stated that Ben Ormond was a desperate character and had made threats against him. His plea was self-defense and he was kept on the stand undergoing a grilling cross examination until court adjourned for the day.

Mills is charged with the murder of Ormond.

GUILFORD COUNTY FARMER TAKES HIS OWN LIFE.

John Henry Oswald Shoots Himself in Temple.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Greensboro, N. C., May 11.—John Henry Oswald, a farmer of this county, committed suicide early today by shooting himself in the temple.

His wife and a sister survive.

He was a native of Greenfield, O., and the funeral will be there.

London, May 11.—Baron Wimborne, manager of the English polo team, which has challenged for the international polo trophy, held by the United States, today decided to sail for America May 23rd, with a polo team composed of Mr. Tomkinson, Major B. Y. Bingham, Major F. W. Barrett and Major C. F. Hunter.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Health will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the office of the superintendent of health.

GIANTS MAKE IT THREE FROM BOSTON BRAVES.

Won Hard Hitting Game Yesterday by Eight to Six Score.

New York, May 11.—New York made it three straight from Boston here today, the champions winning a hard hitting game eight to six. Merkle and Schmidt each hit a home run with two men on bases. The feature of the game was a one-handed catch by Connolly in the first inning. Connolly followed the catch with a throw from deep left to first base, which doubled Fletcher.

DARKNESS STOPPED GAME IN THIRTEENTH INNING.

St. Louis and Chicago Battle Until Long After Sunset to a Draw.

St. Louis, May 11.—Darkness stopped the St. Louis-Chicago game here today with the score 5 to 5 in the 13th inning. The visitors scored by bunching hits and through the wildness of Doak and Perritt. The home team tied the score in the ninth when Cather led and was brought in by Wingo's double. Wingo scored on Magee's single.

In the 11th inning Magee and Sweeney came to blows, the latter knocking the St. Louis player down before the players and umpires could interfere. After Magee had singled he tried to steal second, he says. After spiking him, Sweeney hit him in the back with the ball. He got up from the base and struck at the Chicago infielder, who dropped him with several punches on the head.

HAIL STORM SWEEPS OVER NORFOLK SECTION.

Berries, Cabbage, Peas and Potatoes Badly Damaged.

Norfolk, Va., May 9.—A severe hail storm swept over this section today and reports received from surrounding counties tonight say the damage done growing crops will aggregate between $150,000 and $200,000. Berries, cabbage, peas and potatoes suffered the most. Growing berry plants were beaten to pieces by the hail stones which were as large as marbles.

Richard Irvin, who owns five farms near Hodges Ferry in Norfolk county, says his loss will reach $45,000. He said he would not ship 300 barrels of truck from all five farms. Before the storm he had prospects of gathering a large crop of berries, peas and potatoes.

VETERANS FROM REUNION.

Old Soldiers Back from Jacksonville Meeting of Confederates.

The confederate veterans of the city who attended the big reunion of the boys who wore the gray in Jacksonville, Fla., have returned and all declare that the meeting was one of the most enjoyable reunions ever held. There are more than four score thousand people attending, though the veterans no longer turn out in old time numbers.

Gen. J. I. Metts, Dr. A. M. Baldwin, Messrs. J. O. Ormsby, J. F. Cox and several more made up the local party to the Florida city. All say Jacksonville acted the host in a manner that left nothing to be desired. Next year the reunion goes to Richmond.

Estimable Negro Dead.

Following an attack of acute indigestion Saturday, Jim Reeves, an estimable colored man, for many years porter for the A. C. L., died and was buried Sunday at Southport. Polite and with smiling good humor always on his face, he was well thought of by many who regretted to hear of his sudden passing. A vestryman in St. Mark's Episcopal church, he led a correct life and was one of the city's best colored citizens.

WILL BE RUN EARLY IN SPRING OF 1915 ON THE EXPOSITON GROUNDS.

New York, May 11.—Both the Vanderbilt cup race and the Grand prix will be contested early in the Spring of 1915 at the Panama Pacific Exposition. This announcement was made touay after a conference between represenatives of the Automobile Club of America, the American Automobile Association and the Exposition.

The cup race will be sanctioned by the Automobile Club and the grand prix by the Automobile Association. The motor cups holding company of which W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., is president, will sanction the trophies for both events.

The races will take place two weeks apart on a track constructed in the exposition grounds, the Vanderbilt cup coming first.

PLANS FOR SCHOOL BUILDING.

Regular Monthly Meeting of Board of Education Yesterday.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education which was held yesterday afternoon, plans and specifications for a new two-room brick veneered school building at Castle Haynes, which were prepared by Mr. James F. Gause, Jr., the architect, were accepted. It was decided to call for bids at once. These must all be in the office of the county superintendent of public instruction by noon, May 20th.

Bids for the present Hemenway school building were received yesterday, but were not opened on account of the absence of the chairman, J. O. Carr, Esq. These will be opened at a later meeting of the board. The building will be removed at an early date in order to make way for a new structure which will be erected this summer.

Prof. Washington Catlett, county superintendent of public instruction, reported that all the rural schools have closed and that it has been a very successful year in every way. The commencement exercises were all of a high order, he stated, and were largely attended.

The members of the committee will go to Delgado this afternoon to inspect a site which has been given for a school building in that village by Mr. E. C. Holt.

CHAUTAUQUA GREATLY PLEASES GREENSBORO

And Hundreds Sign For Season Tickets Next Year.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., May 11.—The first chautauqua to be given in Greensboro by the Redpath company closed tonight. So pleased were the people with it that hundreds signed cards agreeing to take tickets next year, and this assures that the city will have a similar gathering here in the spring of 1915.

It was a magnificent program of twenty events, which cost holders of season tickets only 10 cents for each event. The closing feature of the week's entertainment was the Kellogg-Haines singing party in light opera.

—Former Policeman M. P. Newton, now of St. Paul's, N. C., is here this week attending Federal Court and is being cordially greeted by a host of his friends.

PIKEVILLE ELIMINATED BY ROCKYMOUNT

From Race For State High School Championship.

Rocky Mount, N. C., May 11.—By the overwhelming score of eleven to nothing Rocky Mount eliminated Pikeville from the race for the State high school championship. It was at case of too much Kinlaw and the local firing artist held the visitors hitless throughout the nine frames.

Never once did Pikeville reach the third sack and only once the second, on a bobble in the infield, which went for an error. Hughes, the Pikeville southpaw, found rough sledding, being hit over the lot at will and was powerless to steam the hitting with men on the paths. His team mates accorded him ragged support though C. Harris, Nunn and Perkinson ripped off hits, and extra bases, scoring men ahead of them in eaca instance.

This game was played under the arrangement of the State University Athletic Council and is an elimination contest for the championship of the high schools of Eastern Carolina, Coach "Doggie" Trenchard handled the indicator at this contest under the direction of the University council. There remains but one additional game for the high school supremacy in Eastern Carolina and that is between Kinston and Rocky Mount and must be played during the coming week on neutral grounds. Kinston and Rocky Mount have played two games already this year for a total of 28 innings in the two contests and both games here and in Kinston have terminated a tie.

Maj. Stickle Returns.

Maj. H. W. Stickle, United States engineer for this district, returned Sunday from Washington, D. C., where he was called to appear before the Committee on Commerce in connection with the harbor of refuge which will be built at Cape Lookout. He also gave the Senators some valuable information regarding the proposed extension of the inland waterway from Beaufort, N. C., to the Cape Fear river. Senator Simmons is acting chairman of the committee and it was at his request that Maj. Stickle went before the committee.

WILMINGTON BOY WINNER.

Mr. J. P. Orr Carried Off Honors in Field Day Exercises.

In the annual field day events at Westminster school at Rutherfordton, Mr. J. Pritchard Orr, an old Wilmington boy, won three of the prizes. Mr. Orr is a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Orr, of Currie, and was for some time connected with the bookkeeping department of McNair & Pearsall. He resigned this position last fall to attend Westminster.

The prizes won by Mr. Orr are as follows: First prize in one mile race, making it in five minutes and 40 seconds. First prize for one-half mile race, which was made in two minutes and 25 seconds. He also won the first prize in the standing broad jump.

Jerome Travers Again.

Sandwich, Eng., May 11.—Jerome D. Travers, amateur champion of the United States, caused a sensation among the British golfers, who are to meet him in the coming championship by doing the championship course in 69 strokes. The amateur record is 68.

PROHIBIT MORMONISM IN THE UNITED STATES

Bill Introduced by Senator Overman by Request.

Gets Bill Passed for Pension For Wilmington Man—Smith Seems Certain of Wilson Post Office.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., May 11.—Senator Overman introduced a resolution by request today to amend the constitution so as to prohibit Mormonism in any part of the United States.

The Junior senator also secured the passage of a bill providing a pension of $30 per month to Robert Cowan, of Wilmington, and $20 for Henry C. Miller, of Salisbury.

The Postoffice Department has authorized the lease of the present quarters of the Pittsboro postoffice for ten years from November next. E. W. Thompson, of Charlotte, who for the past ten months has been a commercial agent for the Department of Commerce, is here. Mr. Thompson has been abroad studying cotton conditions in other countries.

Wilson Postmastership Settled

After a conference with Postmaster General Burleson today, Representative Claude Kitchin stated that Mr. Burleson told him that he still intended to appoint S. W. Smith as postmaster at Wilson. Mr. Kitchin also talked with Senator Simmions about the Wilson appointment and the latter told him that there would be no objection on his part.

Mr. Smith himself was here today and held a conference with the Second district congressman. Mr. Smith stated that his position was just what it was when he was here last time. Then he told The Star correspondent, who was the only newspaper man who saw him while here, that he was a condidate for the office in good faith and if appointed he would perform the duties of the office to the entire statifaction of the patrons and the Postoffice Department.

In a letter to Mr. Burleson today, Mr. Smith confirmed these statements.

He also states that he has arranged his tobacco business so as to enable him to give all of the time and attention to the postoffice which the department will require. "I have no intention of resigning," says Mr. Smith, "or giving up the duties of the postoffice in the event of my appointment, but to discharge faithfully and continuously my duties as postmaster." Representative Kitchin believes Smith's nomination will follow without any further delay.

The postoffice fight at Durham promises to wax warm within the next ten days. Quite a few delegations will be in Washington this week with large batches of endorsements. Major Stedman will receive them all in his usual courteous manner than decide upon the man with the largest petition.

Omnibus Claims Bill Will Pass.

The omnibus claims bill carrying approxmately $40,000 in North Carolina war claims, mostly for church property, will be passed by the Senate. It has already passed the House.

Herbert Williams, Claude Kitchin's first alternate to the Naval Academy, is here. As the only man applying in Representative Small's district failed on his examinations, Mr. Kitchin will try to have Mr. Small give Williams his appointment and Mr. Small take the Second district election for June a year hence. This would not retard the appointment in the First district, because if Mr. Small names a man now he could not enter until June, 1915, while Williams has passed and could enter at once.

Reception to Tar Heels.

The North Carolina Society of Washington will give a reception Friday night to Secretaries David F. Houston and Josephus Daniels and the two Senators, the State delegation and their wives. The reception will be held at the Confederate Home on Vermont avenue. Refreshments and grape juice cocktails will be served.

Mr. Houston is a former North Carolinian. He was born at Monroe.

ATTORNEY GENERAL BICKETT SPEAKS IN GREENSBORO.

Delivers Memorial Day Oration—Exercises Held Monday.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., May 11.—Attorney General T. W. Bickett was the orator at the annual Confederate Memorial Day exercises here today. He spoke in the Grand opera house to a large audience, including more than 150 veterans of the struggle between the States. The day's exercises were full of interest for the men who once wore the grey. At 10 o'clock the procession formed in front of the county court house, and the veterans were conveyed by automobiles to Greene Hill cemetery. Here there was music by the band, which led the procession, a salute was fired, flowers were laid by loving hands on the Confederate mound and prayer was offered by Chaplain Melton Clark.

Returning to the city, the audience gathered in the opera house. The programme here included several songs, prayer by Dr. C. W. Byrd and music by the Elon College band. Crosses of honor were presented a number of veterans. Col. James T. Morehead, the oldest member of the Greensboro bar and a colonel in the Confederate army, presented the speaker of the day, his introduction being especially fitting and characteristic.

A. A. F. SEAWELL WILL BE CANDIDATE FOR SPEAKER.

Seeks Re-Election to House From Lee County.

Sanford, N. C., May 11.—A. A. F. Seawell, Esq., of this place, has authorized the announcement that he will be a candidate for re-election as representative from Lee county, in the next House, and will be a candidate for speaker.

Mr. Seawell has served in the Legislature a number of times, in both branches, and was among the most influential members of the House at the last session. A number of the leading men of the State have tendered him their support in the race for Speaker.

PRIMARY TO BE HELD IN COLUMBUS COUNTY TODAY

Odd Fellows Celebrate Anniversary —Clean-up Week Proclaimed.

(Special Star Correspondence)

Whiteville, N. C., May 11.—The end of the political fight that has been so hotly waged in this county for the past two or three months is almost in sight and 6 o'clock tomorrow will wind up the voting and then those whose campaigns have been so strenuously conducted, at least some of them, must face the inevitable. Partisan predictions are abundant and vary almost as widely as the platforms of the different candidates.

The anniversary services of the local lodge of Odd Fellows were held at the High School auditorium yesterday afternoot at 3 o'clock, with a large attendance of visiting Odd Fellows, Rev. J. E. L. Winecoff, of Kenansville, formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, delivered the anniversary sermon from the text: "Love thy neighbor as thyself." He strongly emphasized the inestimable value of Odd Fellowship and in concluding a most inspiring sermon, said that the success of any one man today is in no little measure dependent upon the brotherly feeling that he holds for his associates in the business of life.

Mayor Tucker has just issued a proclamation calling upon the business people of the town to observe May 11th, 16th as Clean-up week and urging the co-operation of the citizens in aiding the Civic League. This marked his first official act since his election and the second was to call the automobile owners and drivers togetner and in some well chosen expressions left them believing that he is not going to tolerate any violations of the speed ordinances. Since the conference there has been a noticeable decrease in recklessly driven cars on the main thoroughfares.

N. C. NATIONAL GUARD READY WITH FULL QUOTA

And a Call to Mobilize Is Expected In Raleigh.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., May 11.—The statement is made in the executive offices of Governor Craig that there is no further necessity for the War Department at Washington to conker with the Governor as commander in chief of the North Carolina National Guard as to the strength of the Guard that can mobilibed for field service from this State, report in detail as to all this having been furnished the War Department early in the developement on the Mexican complications.

This statement was made in connection with the news that went out from Washington that numbers of the governors were being called up over long distance by the War Department officials to ascertain just what strength could be mustered when a call is turned in for the mobilization.

There seems to be little or no doubt now that mobilization and actual invasion of Mexico must come very soon. In that event this State will tender at once the full force of the three battalions of infantry, the two troops of cavalry, the cost artilley, the full quota of sanitary troops, hospital corps and others, all being now well nighfully equipped.

AFTER STANDARD HOME CO.

Commissioner Young Cites a Case Against Concern.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., May 11.—State Commissioner of Insurance James R. Young, who has been after The Standard Home Co., of Birmingham, as an unlicensed and undesirable institution, has a specific case in which a party has paid in since 1911, $192 with the expectation, never realized, of procuring a 5 per cent. loan to build a home under the terms offered by the concern.

Now the best withdrawal he can made is to take $142.73 in paid up stock payable in 80 months and $103.31 in cash. The commissioner is taking every precaution to prevent "under-ground" business by the company in this State.

ALL SUPPLIES SHIPPED.

For Field Service of North Carolina National Guard.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., May 11.—Officiel information has come to the Adjutant General of the North Carolina National Guard from the War Department that there will be no training school for officers of cavalry and medical corps this year at Fort Oglethorpe for the reason that the regular troops have been moved from that station.

Another official notice that has just come to the Adjutant General is that all the supplies for the full equipment of the North Carolina Guard for field service have been shipped. This includes new uniforms for everybody, full complement of tentage and field transportation, the latter including fifty odd wagons and harness.

L. A. KORNEGAY ARRESTED.

Charged With Embezzlement of $500 From Machine Company.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., May 11.—L. A. Kornegay, charged with embezzlement of a sum between $250 and $500 from the Singer Sewing Machine Company, has been arrested at Pink Hill, 20 miles from here, the sheriff's office announced today.

Kornegay was about two years ago agent for the Singer company at Snow Hill, Greene county, and absconded. After a long absence he was located at Pink Hill and the prosecution followed. Kornegay gave bond in the sum of $500. His trial will probably be held in Snow Hill later.

NEW CHURCH OPENED.

Handsomest Edifice of the Disciples in North Carolina.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., May 11.—The new Gordon Street Christian church here, the handsomest building owned by the Disciples of Christ in North Carolina probably, was formally opened yesterday.

The sermon of the pastor, Rev. Bernard P. Smith, at 11 A. M., was of a dedicatory nature. The night service was of the order of a union meeting, other congregations, notably the Queen Street Methodists, participating. The Gordon Street church cost nearly $50,000.

Commissioners Authorize Convict Guards to Use Such Means of Disciplin as Necessary.

The adoption of a resolution drawn by County Attorney W. P. Stacey and offered by Commissioner McGirt authorizing the guards at the convict camps in New Hanover county to "employ such means and use such discipline as may be necessary to carry out the judgements and sentences imposed upon the different prisoners by the courts" was the chief feature of the adjourned session of the Board of County Commissioners, held yesterday afternoon.

Sheriff Cowan was not quite ready to make the final settlement with the board on his tax collections, and at the close of the meeting yesterday afternoon a recess was taken until next Monday afternoon, when the settlement will be made.

The resolution relative to the use of disciplinary measures in the convict camps is called forth by reason of a recent ruling of the State Supreme Court, which has halted the old time habit of whipping convicts. Since this has been abolished the local convict guards have complained of trouble in handling the convicts, not so much the actual lack of corporal punishment being responsible as the knowledge on the part of the convicts that such measures could not be used. The New Hanover guards attribute to this fact many of the escapes that have been made from the county camps during the past year or so.

The resolution, as drawn by the county attorney at the request of the commissioners, is intended to allow the guards to use corporal punishment in dealing with the convicts in such cases where it may be necessary. It is stated that in its ruling on the Wake county case, wherein the Supreme Court held that the guards did not have a right to flog convicts the Court held that the lack of proper authorization by the Board of Commissioners was the principal reason why the guards exceeded their authority in whipping the men.

The full resolution, as adopted yesterday afternoon, is as follows:

"Whereas some trouble has arisen in regard to the management of the convicts at some of the camps, now therefore be it

"Resolved: That the guards in charge of the different forces and camps be authorized to employ such means and to use such discipline as may be necessary to carry out the judgements and sentence imposed upon the different prisoners by the courts."

Chief Deputy M. Cronly, of the Sheriff's office, stated to the Commissioners that the sheriff's statement on the tax returns was not quite finished, explaining that they had been delayed by an error of something like $100 in the books, and that they were still checking to find this. Until this was found the proper divisions in the tax money could not be worked out, and Mr. Cronly asked for a little more time. At his request the Board decided to take a recess upon the close of the meeting, and to meet again next Monday.

Jos. W. Little, Esq., appeared before the Board to ask the abatement of back taxes on a piece of property on Chesnut street, between 10th and 11th which he had recently recorvered in court for the State University. The Board refered the matter to the county attorney and the county auditor to investigate and report.

The chairman was authorized to purchase five car loads of road dressing to be used on the different county roads. It was left to the chairman to decide on what form of material shall be purchased.

There being no further business, the Board then took a recess until next Monday.

MEMORIAL DAY AT WILSON.

Mother's Day Also Observed in Several of The Churches.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Wilson, N. C., May 11.—Memorial day was generally observed here with appropriate exercises in the court house at noon, a dinner at the Smith warehouse to the veterans and a parade this afternoon at the cemetery and the deoration of the confederate mound. Judge Bond delivered the principal address.

Sunday was observed as "Mother's Day in several of the Wilson churches. Floral decorations and sermons along the line of the thought of the day were features of the Wilson Christian and the First Baptist churches.

How to Get Rid Of Skin Trouble

A Handsome Skin Book Free That Will Guide You.

So many people fuss in despair over stubborn skin afflictions that some rules laid down in connection with the use of S. S. S. for the blood will be of great value. These are outlined in a hand book, finely illustrated, of the many variations in skin troubles. It tells how to overcome them.

If you have been fighting some blood trouble, some skin disease, call it eczema, lupus, psoriasis, malaria, or what you will, ask at any drug store for a bottle of S. S. S. and you are then on the road to health. The action of this remarkable remedy is just as direct, just as positive, just as certain in its influence as that the sun rises in the East. It is one of those rare medical forces which act in the blood with the same degree of certainty that is found in all natural tendencies. The manner in which it dominates and controls the mysterious transference of rich, red, pure arterial blood for the diseased venous blood is marvelous.

There is scarcely a community anywhere but what has its living example of the wonderful curative effects of S. S. S. Get a bottle of this famous remedy today, and if your case is stubborn or peculiar, write to Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Co., 535 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Do not permit anyone to talk you into a substitute for S. S. S.

PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE MORNING STAR, the oldest daily newspaper in North Carolina, is published daily except Monday at $6 per year; $3 for six months; $1.50 for three months; 50 cents for one month, served by carriers in the city, or by mail.

THE SUNDAY STAR, by mail, one year $1; six months, 50 cents; three months, 25 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES may be had on application, and advertisers may feel assured that through the columns of this paper they may reach all Wilmington, Eastern Carolina and contiguous territory in South Carolina.

Obituary sketches, cards of thanks, communications espousing the cause of a private enterprise or a political candidate and like matter will be charged at the rate of 10 cents per line, to persons carrying a regular account, or, if paid cash in advance a half rate will be allowed. Announcements of fairs, festivals, balls, hops, picnics, excursions, society meetings, political meetings, etc., will be charged under the same conditions, except so much thereof as may be of news value to the readers of the paper, in the discretion of the editors.

TELEPHONES: Business Office, No. 51; Editorial and Local rooms, No. 61. Call either, if the other doesn't answer.

COMMUNICATIONS, unless they contain important news, or discuss briefly and properly subjects of real interest are not wanted; and, if acceptable in every other way, they will invariably be rejected unless the real name of the author accompanies the same, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

ALL DRAFTS, checks, express money orders and postal money orders for the paper should be made payable, and all communications should be addressed, to THE WILMINGTON STAR CO.

A woman whose husband left home, advertised for him to "come home and get good." He ought to get good and go home, for a stray husband always looks sheepish.

The newspapers contain a picture of our jackies "on the deck of the United States cruiser Chester." The jackies look good on deck, but they appeared to finer advantage on duty in the face of those Mexican snipers at Vera Cruz.

The Atlanta Constitution announces that the street cars will run all night while the Shriners are there this week. People will be surprised to know that Atlanta could get along at any time without cars day and night all the time.

Says the Columbia State: "William Rockefeller, Lewis Cass Ledyard, George Macculloch and George F. Baker are to be questioned concerning those missing New Haven millions." Questioned, is it? Bedad, why don't they search the whole bunch?

So far as we have seen, the Mexicans have never given out any official statement of their losses in the fight with the American forces at Vera Cruz. The probability is that they sent out reports that they let the Americans land so they could bottle them up.

A more or less irresponsible remedy for a red nose is published, but men whose noses are red should confine themselves to drinking nothing but water or quit poking their noses into other people's business. In any event, see a doctor before starting a course of self treatment.

No Congressman who wants to get through with his speech would dare to say in the midst of his remarks: "I pause for a reply." It is about all the Speaker of the House can do to keep other Congressmen from butting in on another whose grip hardly enables him to hold the floor or hold his own under fire.

Explorer A. H. Savage Landor calls Col. Roosevelt a charlatan on account of the method which the colonel is using to get publicity for his South American exploits. We have no idea what the Colonel will call A. H. Savage Landor, but it will sound something like a Texan calls a dog when he kicks it for trying to bite him.

Speak about having pipe dreams, our old friend Dr. Cook had them all beaten up to recent times, but we know somebody who is going to make the doctor's "Top of the World" look like a potato hill. We feel a delicacy in telling his name, but if he again runs as the Progressive candidate for President, somebody will be sure to let it be known.

Atlanta has the Shriners with her this week, but it is understood that Atlanta is no Sahara, even if the camels are reported as moving to the Shrine in a great caravan over "the hot sands of the desert." The Shriner language is purely figurative, and for the time being many a distinguished and dignified citizen's personality is not altogether lost while he prefers to pose and parade as an Arab. Most men would dearly love to be an Arab for a week, if not longer, if it is a purely imaginative role in which he can play a part that makes him appear a little different from his every day self. When he goes home he has as few disclosures to make as the Hon. John Lind.

THE CAPE FEAR OCEAN GATEWAY.

The Star has often pointed to the fact that the bigest asset of the State is its ocean outlet at Wilmington, and that certainly it is the most powerful means for the development of Wilmington into a great commercial and manufacturing centre. Wilmington never has fully appreciated the fact itself, and North Carolina as a whole can be excused for not being as fully aware of the State's opportunities here when we expect the people of the State to find them out without our assistance.

However, if The Star has done nothing else, it has kept hammering upon this subject till the interest of the State press has been enlisted and the leading papers of the State are manifesting every disposition to forward every plan for the development of this port.

It is for Wilmington to formulate a plan and get all the State behind it, and we should do it while the people of North Carolina are being constantly reminded that their relief in the solution of the freight rate problem lies in water competition at Wilmington. They have heard that long enough, but now prefer to see results instead of hearing the noise that has been made about it so many years. We have either got the goods here for the State or we haven't, and if we have them we certainly ought to show them.

The Charlotte Observer has been a long and strong advoate of the great development of this port, and now such a great State paper as the Greensboro News has been putting in some powerful licks in behalf of the port. We have recently copied what the News had to say in strong and friendly terms upon this subject, and again that valued contemporary declares itself in an emphatic way in reply to what The Star said a few days ago. Here is the way the News goes on to assure us of its readiness to make port development here a State movement:

"We need not assure The Sar and all and sundry that the utmost this newspaper can do, in season aud out of season, to forward this great enterprise, will be forthcoming. We for one do not believe that anything approaching an ideally sound state of commercial health, any position of commanding commercial advantage, will ever be reached in this state, except through the utilization of the Cape Fear outlet. We are neither economist enough nor engineer enough to know just how it can be done, or ought to be done; but it does seem to us that the time for sporadic talk and speculation has passed. The forces of this state ought to unite on a program, or else tell us frankly that there is no hope of a program. If we can make a combination of Panama canal, Southport, proximity to the coal fields and railway construction that will enable North Carolina to establish a commerce of its own, to grasp a huge share of the prosperity the canal is going to give to the South, and at once and forever put an end to the rate discrimination that has been an inreasing burden through the years, it is high time the whole state combined to do it. If this combination cannot be effected, if there is any element of it fatally defective—if for instance neither Wilmington nor Southport can be made a deep water port—then it ought to be settled and authoritatively announced. And it seems to us that the business forces of Wilmington ought to be right on the job, every minute, in convincing the State, if they indeed have faith. Right now is emphatically the time for Wilmington to put up, or shut up, and quit asserting that it has the potentialities of first class ocean commerce."

Of course, Wilmington has a more-or less active local movement for greater development of the port, but Wilmington and Southport ought to see from the above that the time is ripe for a State movement to develop the State's ocean gateway. The State can put up a stronger fight for a 35 foot channel and a 40 foot bar than can be waged in a merely local movement, and the same can be said with reference to the movement to present the advantages of Southport for a government coaling station, or for any other plan for the development of the commerce of the State.

There is a port situation here that Wilmington cannot any more handle than New Orleans could do there, than San Francisco could do there, nor than could be done locally at New London, Conn. Louisiana saw that New Orleans was her port and that State acted accordingly. So did California, Connecticut, New Jersey and other States which have taken State action.

We have our Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association and ther is organized effort and agitation for the intra-coastal waterway, and in view of the fact that the State Press Association is soon to meet in Wilmington, we ought to lay before it a plan for a State organization to promote the interests of the State's port. Shall we not take advantage of the opportunity?

HARMONY AND COMMUNITY PROGRESS.

The Augusta Chronicle, which is particularly zealous in promoting the development and progress of the city of Augusta, recently has made several strong editorial pleas for community harmony. Its aim has been to point out that local political divisions are obstacles to community progress, whereas the perfect harmony that enables all the people of a city to unite in its interest works wonders in the way of advancing a city's growth and prosperity.

It is a notorious fact that cities which are divided up into factions and cliques make slow progress, and whether it is due to the kind of people who always have radical differences, or whether it is due to local conditions, the inevitable result is the same. If it is the people, there is little to be hoped for a community unless they are imbued with a new spirit, or unless there are enough newcomers to "drown out" the cliques and the factions. If it is due to local canditions, the right sort of people would soon remedy them and unite for the good of their city. However, it is said that it is typical of a small community and evidence of its mossbackism when it is ground for factional growth and for the propagation of cliques. Its only hope is to outgrow it, and since little can be expected from that source, it is up to a community's people to put out their differences and get together in a common cause.

The Chronicle wants more "political peace and progress" and it points out some of the results which have followed the union of purpose among the people in one particular. That city seemed to have been unfortunate in being always upset by factions, but the flood disaster a few years ago united them on one thing—levees along the Savannah river to protect life and property from the floods of that destructive river. The Augusta paper shows "by the city's own official records, that Augusta has grown more within the past three years—or since the levee became assured—than she had grown in ten years immediately preceding, or in the best ten years of her history."

The Chronicle makes the astonishing if not extravagant statement that during those three years of united effort, Augusta's population has increased from 39,441 to 51,280. The annual building permits have jumped from about $600,000 a year to nearly $2,500,000 a year, while her tax values have increased from $25,115,436 to $34,759,725. That certainly is growing some, and we should say that it is a magnificent reward for even three years of pulling together.

When people see the concrete results of pulling together, it would seem strange for them to again break up into factions, but it seems that the Augustans are unnecessarily wrought up over politics, probably the peanut variety, for the Chronicle brings them face to face with the question whether they are going ahead for more levee protection against floods, or "whether they are going to play the fool, by letting personal and factional politics creep in—as usual—and literally undo all the good work that has been done these three years past—the greatest work ever undertaken since the city was founded." As for itself, The Chronicle says it surrenders its political and partisan views for the good of Augusta.

Certainly, that is a correct attitude for every citizen to take, but other citizens might be as strongly in the opposition and be just as consciencious Therefore, it is only by concessions and compromises that men can bury their differences. Sticklers, thick heads, butt-heads and hot heads will never do it, but the question is why should any man take such an unreasonable, unalterable and implacable position on any question that he will continue to be dead set against meeting other men half way? That really is the spirit we have to get rid of in order to pull together.

The Southern cities which have a seat on the tail-board of progress are those which can't go ahead on account of the barnacles which are the outgrowth of coteries, or cliques, or factions, neither of which will "play" unless you play their way or play into their hands. There is some half-way ground upon which all men can get together when they want to do it or have to do it, when emergencies arise or disasters threaten. They can do the same when progress demands it, or when they become thoroughly convinced that "a house divided against itself will fall."

CIVIL SERVICE SAVES NEGRO.

Under the civil service rules, construed by a Democratic administration at Washington, Collector of Revenue A. D. Watts, of the Western North Carolina District, cannot get rid of the negro janitor in his office at Statesville. An effort to do so was based on the charge that the janitor conducted a tailoring establishment in the basement of the government building, but the government authorities have held that so long as there was no fault to be found with the janitor's services his basement business was not a sufficient charge upon which to displace him.

What Collector Watts will do about it has not yet appeared, but it is said he declared beforehand that he would not serve as custodian of the building if the negro janitor were retained. When he took charge of his office at Statesville he dismissed the negro from service for running a tailoring shop in the government building, contrary to the dignity of the service, but despite the assistance of Senators and Representatives, Secretary McAdoo has ben compelled to inform Collector Watts that there is no way to prize the janitor loose from his job.

The Treasury Department had an inspector to go quietly to Statesville to look into the matter, but he could find nothing against the janitor, so the Civil Service Commission at Washington, one of the three being a Southern man, reported to Secretary McAdoo that under the rules they could not recommend the discharge of the darkey. In the meantime, Collector Watts had installed a Confederate veteran, Captain Gregory, as janitor, and if there is yet no way of keeping the colored janitor out, the collector will have to pay his salary.

DEATH OF MADAME NORDICA.

The South is pained over the death of Madame Lillian Nordica, who passed away at Batavia, on Sunday after an illness resulting from exposure brought about oy shipwreck on Torris Strait, in the Orient, last January. Madame Nordica is proclaimed by eminent critics to have been "perhaps the most distinguished singer ever born on this side of the Atlantic," and we think that would have been a safe estimate of her with the "perhaps" left off.

Madame Nordica was truly a great operatic singer and her popularity was nation-wide. The South was appreciative of her, and even in the height of her career she always wanted Southern cities included in her itinerary. She frequently appeared in Wilmington and was the most popular American singer who ever appeared before an audience here.

Madame Nordica was born in Farmington, Me., and her father was a farmer. Her wonderful voice was discovered when she was a shop girl in a Boston store, and a lady customer who heard her gave her the first lessons which sent her upon a career that is known all over the world.

Colonel Roosevelt insists that he discovered a thousand mile river in Brazil, but no doubt Professor Taft, of the Yale law department, will chuckle at the idea that unsupported statements should be accepted as evidence. We fancy a broad, quizzical, queerish and ghoulish smile on the professor's face when he sees the Colonel's allegations in print. It should be stated that in literature fanciful allegations are classed as romance.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Col. S. A. Jones, of Waynesville, is in Washington. He sends us copies of three bills which he has presented to the senate committee on commerce. One of them would authorize the making of estimates of the cost of construction at Southport of a naval coaling station, capable of storing half a million tons of coal; with suitable equipment and docks, and best modern appliances for loading the coal bunkers of the ships of the navy; and that when a report on specifications has been made, the construction of such coaling station shall immediately be begun. The second bill is for investigation and report as to the cost of securing 35 feet depth of water at low tide into the Southport harbor and at high tide up the Cape Fear to Wilmington. The secretary is directed, on completion of this survey and report, to recommend the passage of a bill making the appropriation necessary to secure this depth of water on bar and in river. The third bill is for the establishment of a direct steamship mail line between Wilmington and Southport and the east coast of South America, at a cost of $200,000 per annum. These enterprises are three phases of what may be conveniently referred to as "Col. Jones' scheme." A fourth part is the construction of a ship canal across Florida. The final feature, which is the main one, so far as Col. Jones is concerned, is the construction of the "Transcontinental" railroad across North Carolina and Tennessee, connecting with the middle west. Col. Jones has always insisted that Congress could not refuse to enact this legislation, once it was up to that body. He insists that the plan is necessary to and desired by states having an aggregate of more than thirty million people, and paying more than three hundred million dollars annually into the United States treasury. There will be, incidentally, a saving in the navy coal bill of about a million dollars a year.—Charlotte Observer.

A TRIBUTE OF AFFECTION.

The news that Dr. D. W. Bulluck had fallen under the stroke of death, caused a wave of genuine sorrow to roll over this community, and hundreds of negroes shared the general grief. In his passing they realize that they have lost a friend for whom they possessed a very tender regard. Many of us who were privileged to have intercourse with him esteemed him for tender sympathy, wise counsel and unaffected interest. His conscientious discharge of professional duties endeared him to those to whose bedside he came as an angel of mercy, to soothe with his sympathetic voice and tender touch.

His splendid endowment of head and heart was given to the cause of humanity.

The finer qualities of his noble nature were manifest in numerous instances, when dealing with my people. We knew and esteemed him as a skilful physician, courteous gentleman and pious Christian. These lines of Cowper's are truly significant: "Skins may differ, but affection dwells in white and black the same."

REV. JAS. A. BONNER.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McNeill wish to tender their sincerest thanks to the many friends for their sympathy and beautiful floral designs on the occasion of the death of their brother, James Reeves. (advertisement.)

GRAND MUSICAL FESTIVAL

Superb Attractions for Music Lovers at Chautauqua Yesterday and Today—Band Concerts.

Reaching its climax tonight when Bohumir Kryl and his band and the Denton Grand Opera Company will give a band concert and grand opera, the Musical Festival at the Chautauqua, inaugurated yesterday afternoon with a brilliant recital by Marcus A. Kellerman, one of the three great baritones of this country, and a grand concert last night by the Cathedral Choir, is providing one of the rarest opportunities for enjoying real music of high class that Wilmington ever had. That these magnificent attractions are appreciated is indicated by the large audiences which attended last night and yesterday afternoon.

The Redpath bureau have already more than made good their guarantee to provide the people of Wilmington with a list of attractions superior to anything of its kind ever before presented in this city. There are still three days of the Chautauqua and on the programme are numbers that will appeal to people of all temperaments. Tomorrow afternoon Hon. Frank J. Cannon, of Utah, will lecture on Mormonism. Tomorrow night will be children's night and a concert will be given by the Farinelli Company, followed by an exhibition of mystery and magic by Reno, the well known magician.

Yesterday morning Mr. Wallace Bruce Amsbary, the well known author and scholar, gave the first of his literary interpretations at the Chautauqua. His subject was "The Singer of the Seven Seas." He gave readings from Kipling's works, interspersed by racy comments that made them all the more interesting. He is a reader of real ability, peculiarly gifted with the art of imparting to the audience that enthusiasm which he feels. He reads with real appreciation.

His subject this morning will be the "Poet-Sage of Lockerbie Street," being an interpretation of selections from James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet. This will be of especially interest to all who appreciate literature and it is hoped that as many as possible will avail themselves of this opportunity to hear him.

Mr. Amsbary occupied the pulpit at the First Baptist church Sunday morning and gave readings from the works of Tolstoy, the great Russian novelist.

There were two services at the Chautauqua, afternoon and night. In the afternoon the Welsch-Christensen-Baker Company, composed of three talented young ladies, gave a sacred concert which was followed by an address by Dr. W. A. Colledge, who told in vivid language of his experiences in Africa 30 years ago with Henry M. Stanley.

The concert by the young ladies was greatly enjoyed, not only in the afternoon but also at the night service. They have superb voices, one a contralto and the other a soprano, while the third is a pianist. They sang both duets and solos while the pianist played several instrumental selections.

Following the splendid lecture by Dr. W. A. Colledge, the afternoon exercises were closed with a vesper service conducted by Dr. George R. Wallace. This was a most inspiring and helpful feature of the entire programme.

In the evening after the singing by the young ladies, Miss Bond told one of her stories in the simple manner in which she tells them to children and it was not hard for the audience of nearly two thousand to understand why she has become so popular in her afternoon work with the children during her brief stay in the city. She was followed by Mr. Amsbary who gave a reading from James Whitcomb Riley.

The evening service was closed by Dr. George R. Wallace in a sermon-lecture. He took as his text "Making Music Unto the Lord." He made a strong plea for those present to live a happy joyful life and to do all they could to make others happy. It was a unique exposition of a passage of scripture and taught old truths in a striking manner that appealed especially to those who heard it.

The musical recital yesterday afternoon by Marcus A. Kellerman, one of the three greatest baritones in America, and ranking second only to David Bispham in the estimation of many admirers, was superb. Mr. Kellerman was at his best yesterday, and his selections met with the hearty appreciation of his audience. His rendition of the Toreador Song from Carmen was superbly done, but for that matter so were all his other numbers. All his selections were in English, with one exception, the prologue to an Italian opera.

Quite a gathering of little folk heard Miss Bond, who furnished entertainment for them during the children's hour, a feature that is proving vastly popular with the tots of the city.

Last night the grand concert by the Cathedral Choir, a mixed double quartette, was heard by probably the largest audience of the chautauqua, and the entertainment was worthy of an even larger attendance. The programme included old hymns, secular solos, duets, quartettes and choruses, all of which were rendered in a manner truly great. The renditions by the male quartet of "The Lost Chord," and "My Darling Nellie Gray," the female quartet in "The Cuckoo Song," a duet and chorus from "Tales of Hoffman," and a chorus from "Faust," were some of the most enjoyable selections rendered.

COL. ROBERTSON IN SUMMER.

Former Wilmingtonian in Game Cock City of S. Carolina.

Many Wilmington friends of Col. Wm. F. Robertson, formerly residing here, will be interested to know that since he became manager of the city of Sumter, S C, he is becoming identified fully with the business and social life of that community, contributing his full share, as he did here, to the progress and prosperity of his community.

The Sumter Daily Item of last Friday notes the organization of the of that kind for Sumter, and Col. Robertson is named as the president, while a company of Sumter's leading business men compose the directorate. Col. Robertson assisted in Wilmington in the development of its large building and loan interest and he is doing his Sumter community a real service in promoting the idea there.

COURT WILL OPEN TODAY

Spring Term Convenes This Morning with Judge Connor Presiding. To Try White Slave Case.

The spring term of United States Court for this district convenes in the Federal Court building this morning at 10 o'clock and will continue in session for two weeks. Judge H. G. Connor, who will preside, arrived last night from his home at Wilson. District Attorney F. D. Winston, of Windsor, arrived yesterday. United States Marshal William T. Dortch, of Goldsboro, arrived last night.

One of the important cases coming up for trial on the criminal docket and the first of its kind ever to be tried in Wilmington, will be one against Dan Woodel, of Rockingham, who is charged with a violation of the white slave law. He is charged with having taken Addie Phillips, a 15-year-old girl, across the State line to McColl, S. C., where they are said to have lived together for some time. Woodel is only 19 years old and has a wife and child. Woodel is said to have admitted taking the girl, but maintains that there were no improper relations between them. According to the report he stated that they both lived in the same neighborhood and worked in the same cotton mill. He was arrested in January and being unable to give the bond of $1,000 which was required was placed in jail. The girl is said to be deeply in love with him.

There will be at least one moonshining case while there are several cases on the criminal docket for minor misdemeanors. Several foreigners will apply for naturalization papers at this term and an immigration inspector will be here from Washington, D. C., for the purpose of conducting the examinations.

As soon as the criminal docket is completed the civil calendar will be taken up. There will probably be eight or ten of these and none of them will be of great consequence.

Mr. S. P. Collier, deputy clerk, opened court yesterday morning and then formally adjourned it until this morning. He was busy yesterday getting things in shape for the opening by Judge Connor this morning. The first matter to be attended to after the formal opening this morning will be the drawing of the grand jury, which will be followed by the charge of Judge Connor.

HOUSE TORN DOWN IN FEDERAL POINT.

Unknown Persons Make Removal Saturday Night—Tenant Missing.

A mysterious removal of a two-room dwelling recently built by Messrs. G. H. and M. A. Currie, of Clarkton, in Federal Point township, on Saturday night and the disappearance of the tenant, Taylor Clifton, gave rise yesterday to a suspicion of foul play, but this was dispelled last night by the report of Mr. H. Mack Godwin and Deputy Sheriff W. H. Kermon, who were sent Sunday night by Justice Harriss to make an investigation.

They made a close examination and found the timber of the house at Carolina Beach, two miles from the place on which the house was built. They reported that they had found strong evidence which would implicate certain persons with having made the removal. They were positive that there had been no foul play.

Mr. G. H. Currie was in the city yesterday on his way home from the scene of the mystery. He retained Hon. John D. Bellamy & Son to represent him in any legal proceedings that may be brought and left for his home last night. He stated that the title to the property has been in dispute for some time and he was inclined to think that this may have had something to do with the removal of the house. About three months ago a small house on the same premises was burned and the tenant lost all his belongings. It was thought that the fire was of incendiary origin.

IMMANUEL SERVICES CLOSE

Successful Revival Conducted by Rev. Robert King—Additions.

The series of evangelistic services at Immanuel Presbyterian church, conducted by Rev. Robert King the past week, closed Sunday night. There were two large congregations at the services Sunday and they proved to be most helpful and profitable. The meetings resulted in 29 additions to the church and a general uplift spiritually of the members of the congregation. The services this week have been merged into the evangelistic services in the First Presbyterian church.

There will be a farewell service at the church tonight at 8 o'clock at which Mr. King will preach. The public is cordially invited to attend.

DR. COLLEDGE SPEAKS.

Simple but Impressive Service at Fifth Street Methodist.

It was a simple but impressive service at the Fifth Street Methodist church Sunday morning when Dr. W. A. Colledge, of Chicago, in a plain, simple manner discussed some of the great Gospel truths. Without show and without any display of learning or eloquence the speaker outlined some of the fundamental principles of correct and Christian living. It was an inspiration to the large congregation which filled the church to overflowing.

There was at the close of the service a short song service in honor of Mothers' Day.

FUNERAL OF MR. SHOLAR.

Will be Held This Afternoon—Remains Arrive This Morning.

The funeral of Mr. Louis I. Sholar, a former Wilmingtonian who was drowned Sunday, May 3rd, at Austin, Texas, will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the undertaking establishment of Mr. Walter E. Yopp. The remains will arrive in the city this morning. Interment will be made at Oakdale cemetery, and the services will be private.

No particulars have been received here as yet as to how Mr. Sholar came to be drowned, though his employers have notified members of the family that they are sending newspaper accounts of the tragedy.

Two Couples Married Yesterday.

Justice Bornemann yesterday afternoon had the unusual pleasure of uniting two young couples in marriage, the first being Mr. John T. Sellars, of this city, and Miss Lydia E. Ganey, of Delgado, and the second being Mr. Edgar T. Hall, of Atkinson, and Miss Carrie Faircloth, of Autryville. The latter marriage was celebrated at 3 o'clock while the former took place at 5 o'clock. Following each marriage the "Judge" gave one of his well known concerts, which were greatly enjoyed by the few friends which were present.

COLONIAL DAMES TO MEET

Annual Session Convenes in This City Tomorrow—Members from All Parts of State to Attend.

The annual meeting of the North Carolina Society of the Colonial Dames of America will be held on Wednesday, May 13th, at the club rooms in the old Bellamy building, corner of Fifth and Market streets. There will be in attendance a large number of members from all parts of the State, among the cities and towns to be represented being Raleigh, Charlotte, Greensboro, Goldsboro, Winston-Salem, Rocky Mount, Kinston, Fayetteville and perhaps others.

The annual pilgrimage will be made the following day to Old Brunswick. The trip will be made on the steamer Wilmington and the public, including men, women and children, is cordially invited to visit this historical place. It will be a day of pleasure combined with instruction.

The historical address will be made at the exercises which will be held in old St. Philip's church by J. O. Carr, Esq. Rev. T. P. Noe, of this city, will conduct the devotional services. There will also be several musical selections rendered that will be in keeping with the occasion.

Those taking the trip are requested to take along well filled baskets and following the services in the old church a dinner will be served in the shade of the trees. The afternoon will be spent in visiting the many historical scenes nearby. The party will return to Wilmington in the late afternoon.

Mrs. E. P. Bailey, president of the society; Miss Florence Kidder, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Wm. Latimer, register, returned Saturday, from Washington, D. C., where they attended the biennial meeting of the National organization of Colonial Dames. They will make a report of this meeting at the annual session.

The annual reception of the officers and the visiting members will be given at the home of Hon. and Mrs. John D. Bellamy tomorrow evening from 8:30 to 11 o'clock. Each member of the organization will be entitled to bring a friend. This will be brilliant affair and one of the prominent social events of the week.

Among the members of the society who are expected to atend the annual meeting are: Mrs. Frank Harlson and Mrs. James Dunn, Winston-Salem; Miss Mary Hilliard Hinton, chairman of the National committee on historical research, Raleigh; Mrs. W. D. Hines, Kinston; Mrs. Theordore Davidson, Asheville; Mrs. E. J. Justice, Greensboro; Mrs. Ralph Van Landingham, Charlotte; Miss Jennie Fairfax, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Frank Spruill, Rocky Mount; Miss Georgia Hicks, Faison; Mrs. R. C. Miller, Goldsboro.

The price for the trip down the river for the annucal pilgrimage will be 50 cents instead of $1 as advertised. It is expected that those going will provide baskets for the dinner. This will be a most enjoyable event and it is expected that there will be a large number who will go.

INSPIRING SERMON BY DR. J. ERNEST THACKER.

Large Congregations Attending Services at First Presbyterian.

The series of evangelistic services at the First Presbyterian church which are being conducted by Rev. Dr. J. Ernest Thacker, assisted by Prof. Fisher in the singing, continue to grow in interest. There are large congregations at each of the daily services. There have been over 300 who have signed the pledge card, promising to consecrate themselves more fully to Christian service or to become a member of the church. The two services Sunday were especially helpful and inspiring.

Dr. Thacker took as his subject last night 2nd Samuel 9:8. He showed how Mephibosheth thought that David was his enemy, but that later events proved that he was mistaken. So it is with the sinner. He thinks that God is his enemy, but on the contrary, He is his best friend. Not only did David befriend Mephibosheth but he took him into his home, and so it is with Christ, said the speaker, who is willing to take all who come unto Him unto Himself. David did this for the sake of Jonathan and it is for Christ's sake that God saves the sinner. Mephibosheth went into a foreign country, fearful of David's wrath, so has the sinner wandered off from God with the same unfounded fear. It was a powerful exposition of a simple but eternal truth that Dr. Thacker presented and made a profound impression upon the congregation.

This morning Dr. Thacker will speak at 8:20 o'clock on "Evangelism." He will preach again tonight at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

METHODS USED BY NEW HAVEN

To Acquire Publicity Were Given to Inter-State Commerce Commission by Byrnes.

Washington, May 11.—Methods employed by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad for acquiring publicity were disclosed today by Timothy E. Byrnes, of Boston, formerly a vice president of the road, before the Inter-States Commerce Commission when it resumed its inquiry into the affairs of the New Haven. He told of payments to various newspaper men in New England for services rendered in the way of articles for the press and information furnished as to the activities of agencies working against the New Haven.

Mr. Byrnes was closely interrogated regarding the employment of H. B. Knowles, a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, during a legislative recess while Knowles was a member of a committee that had under consideration the question of allowing the New Haven to increase its investment in trolley company holdings.

Mr. Folk asked if it was not true that Knowles was beeing paid $3,000 a year by the New Haven and if Mr. Byrnes did not know that the road was interested in the troller matter.

"Personally I did not know it," answered Mr. Brynes.

WILMINGTON WINS THE CUP

Local Golf Club Downs Raleigh Team by Score of 7 to 3, in Match on Richmond Links.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Richmond, Va., May 11.—Wilmington Golf Club today won all of their matches from the golfers representing the Raleigh Country Club over the links of the Country Club of Virginia, and thereby broke the tie existing between the two cities, and at the same time won the silver loving cup offered.

In the morning the two teams played a two ball match, which was captured by the Wilmington men, four matches to two. In the afternoon they played a best ball foursome, and again the Wilmington men were victors, this time 3 to 1.

The Wilmington players were: W. Buckner, W. A. Townes, M. F. H. Gouveneur, J. F. Roache, A. B. Skelding, J. A. Stewart, T. W. Strange, C. E. Taylor and W. A. French. Each team had won a match on its own course, and it was decided to play the determining matches over a neutral course.

A large gallery witnessed the play, which at times was brilliant. Some good scores were turned in by all of the contestants. The Raleigh players left tonight for the North Carolina city, but the Wilmington men remained over as the guests of the Country Club.

In the first game between Raleigh and Wilmington on the grounds of the Cape Fear Country Club, the local team won by a score of 20 to 4. In the second game on the links of the Raleigh Country Club, Wilmington was defeated by a score of 13 to 17.

With the third game won by Wilmington, the cup comes here, to the great delight of Wilmington golf enthusiasts.

CONTEMPT SENTENCES ARE AGAIN SET ASIDE

was more than three years after the injunction trouble and the sentences then imposed were upset today, finally closing the cases.

Justice Holmes, announcing the decision, said that even if the statute did not cover contempt, the necessity for the speedy disposition of such cases was so great it would establish the rule that by analogy contempt proceedings must be begun within three years after the committing of the offense. Justices Vandeventer and Pitney dissented.

Justice Holmes said the controversy turned upon the question of whether contempt of court is a crime, barred by the statute of limitations which provides that no person shall be prosecuted for an offense unless by "indictment" or information brought within three years. He reviewed the argument that the statute applied only to cases that could be proceeded against by indictment or information or explained that the court had decided these words are controlled by the substantial portion of the statute that "no person shall be prosecuted for an offense," not committed within three years.

The court rejected the argument that the offense continued until the end of the labor boycott against the company in 1910. The offense charged, Justice Holmes said, was not a continuing conspiracy to boycott but specific acts.

The special conduct of Justice Daniel T. Wright, who imposed the sentences in the lower court, are being investigated by the House committee under a resolution for impeachment.

The contempt charges against Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison grew out of the injunction issued by the District of Columbia Supreme Court to prohibit the Federation boycotting the Buck's Stove & Range Company. Proceeding as if the contempt cases were part of the injunction suit, the District Supreme Court held the labor leaders in contempt and sentenced Gompers to one year in jail; Mitchell to nine months, and Morrison to six months. The Supreme Court of the United States on May 15, 1911, set aside those sentences holding that penal sentences had been erroneously imposed in a civil suit.

The day after the sentences were set aside, the District Supreme Court began new proceedings against the labor leaders. A committee was appointed to report whether there was reasonable cause for holding the men guilty of contempt. It consisted of J. J. Darlington, Daniel Davenport and James M. Beck, attorneys of record for the Buck's Stove & Range Company.

Guilty of Contempt.

The committee reported that the three men had been guilty of contempt. It charged that Gompers in December, 1907, had hurried out an issue of the American Federationist, containing the name of the Bock's Stove & Range Company on the "We Don't Patronize List," so as to have it published before the injunction took effect, and circulated the edition after the injunction became effective. It charged contempt for the court in various utterances of Gompers in speeches and editorially in the Federationist. Still another charge was that he printed and circulated a paper known as "An Urgent Appeal for Financial Aid in Defense of Free Press and Free Speech," in which it was contended that he suggested members of the Federation might violate the injunction and defeat its object provided they were not within the District of Columbia.

Frank Morrison was charged with co-operating with Gompers, as secretary of the Federation, in making these publications. Mitchell was likewise charged with co-operation in the circulation of the Federationist and of the "Urgent Appeal" and with presiding over a meeting of the United Mine Workers on January 25, 1908, when a resolution was adopted placing the Buck's stoves and ranges on the unfair list, and providing for fines for members who purchased such a stove or range.

The report was approved by the District Supreme Court and the identical sentences of the first proceedings were imposed.

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals remanded the case with direction that the sentence on Gompers be modified to one month's imprisonment and the imprisonment of Mitchell and Morrison be changed to a fine of $500 for each man.

The District Supreme Court committee insisted before the Supreme Court that the Court of Appeals had no right to modify the sentences. Alton B. Parker, recent Presidential candidate, and Jackson H. Rolston, contended the men had not been guilty of any contempt.

8 P. M.—Smoker and Dutch luncheon at Charlotte Auditorium.

MISSION AT ST. MARY'S.

Interesting Series of Lectures Being Delivered This Week.

The mission at St. Mary's Pro-Cathedral was opened Sunday under very favorable circumstances. The weather was ideal and large congregations displayed their interest by being present at high mass and at vesper service.

Father Doran was at his best and entertained the audience with instructive lectures. At the high mass the object of the mission was explained and at night under the title "Is Life Worth Living," a very instructive discourse was given on the value of the human soul.

Yesterday evening a large audience was present to hear the lecture on the subject "Man's Greatest Misfortune." The speaker pictured sin as the greatest evil and showed that if the desire for heaven was as strong as the desire for the things of the world, salvation would be easy.

This evening the subject will be "The Common Lot of All Men." In connection with these lectures the question box is proving a very attractive feature. Father Doran is a very interesting speaker, his fine voice and eloquent delivery enabling him to hold his audience continuously.

UNVEILING OF MONUMENT AT BURGAW ON MAY 23RD.

Judge Walter Clark, of Raleigh, Will Deliver Address.

The unveiling of the monument in memory of the Confederate soldiers which has been erected at Burgaw will take place on Saturday, May 23rd, Judge Walter Clark, of Raleigh, will deliver the address at 11 o'clock.

The exercises will be held in the court house and at their close a basket dinner will be served on the grounds. The public is cordially invited to attend and those who are present at the exercises are asked to bring well filled baskets. The occasion promises to be one of great interest and will be one of the big events of the year at Burgaw.

THEATRICAL

Big crowds were on hand at the Victoria yesterday to greet Reese Prosser, the old star and Wilmington favorite for years with the Al G. Field's Minstrels, and they have the clever minstrel man a big welcome. Time seems but to add to the richness of Prosser's voice and his singing is just as sweet, tender and appealing as ever. In vaudeville he appears with a companion, Miss Florence Reed, and they make a most charming team.

One of the big-time headliners, Johnnie Geiger, known as the man who makes the violin talk, is also on the bill. Now Geiger is the greatest violinist that has yet appeared in Wilmington. He performs things that would really seem miraculous in the telling, but he does them, and the audiences yesterday simply went wild over his playing and fiddle tricks.

And charming Peggy Dougherty, a young woman of charming ways, with a pretty face and a superb voice, is also a star. She does some swell singing and her changes of costume add much to the act.

Then there's Ray Randall & Co., in a big, brilliant and most elaborate ventriloquist act. It is really a mammoth spectacle and is far, far different from anything yet presented at the Victoria. Randall & Co., carry scenery for the act and have a ton of effects, including a regular airship, which scoots down from the apparent clouds. It's an act the children should especially behold. Of course, there are new films, and plenty of new music by the crack Victoria orchestra.

"Peggy" Dougherty, the "Doll Girl Prima Donna," this week at the Victoria.

"Lucile Love" at the Bijou.

Today the popular photoplay house will present the third installment of that great Gold Seal photo drama, "Lucile Love, the Girl of Mystery," a serial that has taken the whole country my storm wherever it has been shown. Fifty of the leading papers of America are running this story serially in their columns, which attests the fact that it is one of the biggest, one of the greatest, one of the most interesting serial sories ever written.

The opening of the third chapter finds Lucile more dead than alive on the beach of a South Sea island, where she has been cast by the storm which had wrecked the small boat in which she escaped from the burning liner Empress. As she regains consciousness she sees a band of savages, and they make her captive. The installment is one of the most interesting yet, and the plot is just beginning to deepen, so that you will hardly be able to wait from one installment to the other. Miss Grace Cunard in the role of Lucile Love, and Mr. Francis Ford, playing the role of Hugo Loubeque, have scored another big success with this serial, and the other parts of this story are in the hands of some equally well known screen stars.

Two Crystal feature comedies will be another distinct hit on today's bill. "Spotted," and "For the Love of Baldy," are the titles, and they are both screams. The latter, another of those uproriously funny Jake and Baldy pictures, is one of the best yet.

At the Grand Today.

Large audiences were on hand yesterday to give the week a big send-off at the Grand Theatre, the people's favorite amusement palace. They were rewarded by one of the greatest shows that has ever been presented in this city. A galaxy of great films and great stars will greet Grandites today and every theatre-goer should accept a sure tip to be present at the threatre, where comfort is big, entertainment is big and the price of admission is small, being but 5 cents, afternoon and night.

The triumphant procession of great films is headed today by a Pathe two-part special release, "His Wife Wins," and our old friend, Whiffles, appears in the stellar role. That is "nuff sed", because Whiffles is a great laugh-maker and a big favorite.

Kalem has a great triumph on today in "His Indian Nemesis," and it has all the fire, the thrills and the spectacularism of the Kalem way. It is a wonderful story of the West and the noted artist, Art Ortega, will be seen heading the splendid cast.

Edison also contributes great joy and lots of wholesomeness to today's show by offering "The Message in the Rose." It is something extra beautiful and features the charming, clever Mabel Tunell.

EDITORS PREPARING FOR MEETING HERE.

Programme of Press Association Being Arranged for Annual Outing.

Several hundred North Carolina newspaper men are making plans for attending the next annual press convention to be held June 24th and 25th at Wrightsville Beach. Secretary John B. Sherrill, of Concord, has mailed out the usual notices relative to transportation and President Clarence Poe, of Raleigh, is at work on the programme.

Wilmington newspaper men will hold a conference shortly to lay plans for the entertainment of the pencil pushers, who have not met at Wrightsville Beach for four years, and who are looking forward to their return, for Wilmington and the beach have always been favorite places with the editors.

Plans for their entertainment will include several social features, a river trip and an automobile journey over the city and along the superb roads which New Hanover has been building since the last press convention met here.

A special Pullman will be carried by the Seaboard from Charlotte on June 23rd and will be operated through to this city.

Meeting at Pearsall Chapel.

Beginning next Sunday evening, a series of services will be held in the Pearsall Memorial chapel in East Wilmington by Rev. Robert King and Rev. H. W. Koelling; and at the close of the meeting the congregation which has been a mission, will be organized into a church.

Aunt Sally's Advice To Beauty Seekers

Lydia says: "I've tried most everything for my freckles, but can't lose them. What do you suggest?" See answer to "Stella." The treatment suggested I've never known to fail in any case of freckles or other cutaneous blemish.

P. J. K. asks: "Is there anything better than massage to remove wrinkles?" Too much massaging may aggravate a wrinkled condition, tending to soften and loosen the tissue. I advise bathing the face in an astringent lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. This is remarkably effective.

Stella writes: "My complexion is horribly muddy. What shall I do for it?" Get an ounce of mercolized wax at your druggist's. Apply this nightly like you'd use cold cream, washing it off mornings. This will cause the offensive cuticle gradually to make way, by a process of gentle absorption, for the clear, velvety, healthy-hued skin underneath.—Woman's Realm.

MILITIA OFFICERS STAND EXAMINATON

Complete Course of Instruction at The W. L. I. Armory Yesterday

Having completed their annual course in instruction at Fort Caswell, the officers of the Coast Artillery Corps returned to the city Sunday and yesterday stood an examination at the army of the W. L. I. on the subjects they had been studing during the week.

Every company in the corps was represented and about 25 officers took the examination under direction of Captain A. Griegg, Jr., inspector instructor. The work done b ythe officers and men at the fort was very helpful and the inspector was of the opinion that the officers stood a good examination yesterday. Finishing this, all left the city for their homes

Each company was represented at the fort by its officers and four enlisted men, so that a regular organization could take the training given in handling the big guns.

A RELIABLE AND SAFE MEDICINE FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound.

The makers of this great medicine want every family, and every individual, who is subject to a cough or cold, to know that Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a superior high grade medicine, containing only pure healing, demulcent and remedial agents, and that is why more bottles of it are sold today than of any other similar preparation. We want you to use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in preference to any other cough medicine, because it is not only the best you can buy but it is also the cheapest; for it relieves distress so promptly and benefits so quickly that a less amount is needed than of any other cough medicine, and the last dose is as good as the first. It does not contain any opiates, that only stifle a cough, but it soothes and heals inflamed surfaces. Try it for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, bronchial coughs, asthmatic coughs, hoarseness and tickling throat. In 25 cent, 50 cents and $1.00 bottles everywhere. For sale by R. R. Bellamy.

M. daily, and arrives Wilmington at 9:55 A. M.

LEASE OF SITE PERFECTED.

Texas Oil Company Secures Two Acres from Mayor P. Q. Moore.

Following preliminary arrangements made several weeks ago, the Texas Oil Company Saturday perfected a lease from Mayor P. Q. Moore for two acres of property on the Castle Haynes road, beyond Smith's creek, and it is stated that the concern will establish a distributing plant.

The lease is for five years and the plant proposed will be one of several located in this and other States. The offices of the big old company are in New York and Housmon in St. Mark's Episcopal church, cern and has become a large factor in the oil business of the country.

Lace Frocks and Lace Trimmings

LACE frocks and lace trimmings are occupying a prominent place in the sartorial world at the present moment and from all indications bid fair to become a most important fashion feature before many months have passed.

The woman who has no great amount of money at her disposal, however, need not despair for fear she will not be able to afford the latest flounces, ruffles and all over effects because of the extreme expense that is usually attached to lace adornments of this kind, for never before were there so many examples of attractive lace on the market at prices that are really reasonable.

The vogue for well known shadow laces has resulted in their being brought to a state bordering on perfection, and it is now quite possible for the woman with an appreciable limit to her pocketbook to indulge in at least one charming gown of all over lace. If not a whole gown, then it is safe to say that no woman need hesitate to put it on her gown at almost any conceivable place, for she will be in style wherever it is.

Black lace is decidedly popular for evening wear this spring and summer. Black lace frocks always have been both becoming and durable, and there is no doubt that a large number of women will welcome this return of the black lace gown into general favor.

Lace combines well with net also, especially when it is a question of ruffles and flounces, and in place of the fur strip which has been so universally worn the past year ostrich feather strips have come in and are going to take the place of the fur and of the marabou.

Stunning novelty coats are shown made up of this same lace and net combination. They are intended for afternoon dances, but they can be worn for more formal affairs with propriety. Taupe colored net embroidered with blue and rose beads was one coat which attracted a great deal of attention. The coat was fastened with gorgeous rose colored silk, from which hung pendent green and blue and also taupe colored tassels. This coat, when worn over a taupe colored gown of the same color combination, was extremely effective. Most of these net and lace coats are of the same green tone as the gown over which they are worn.

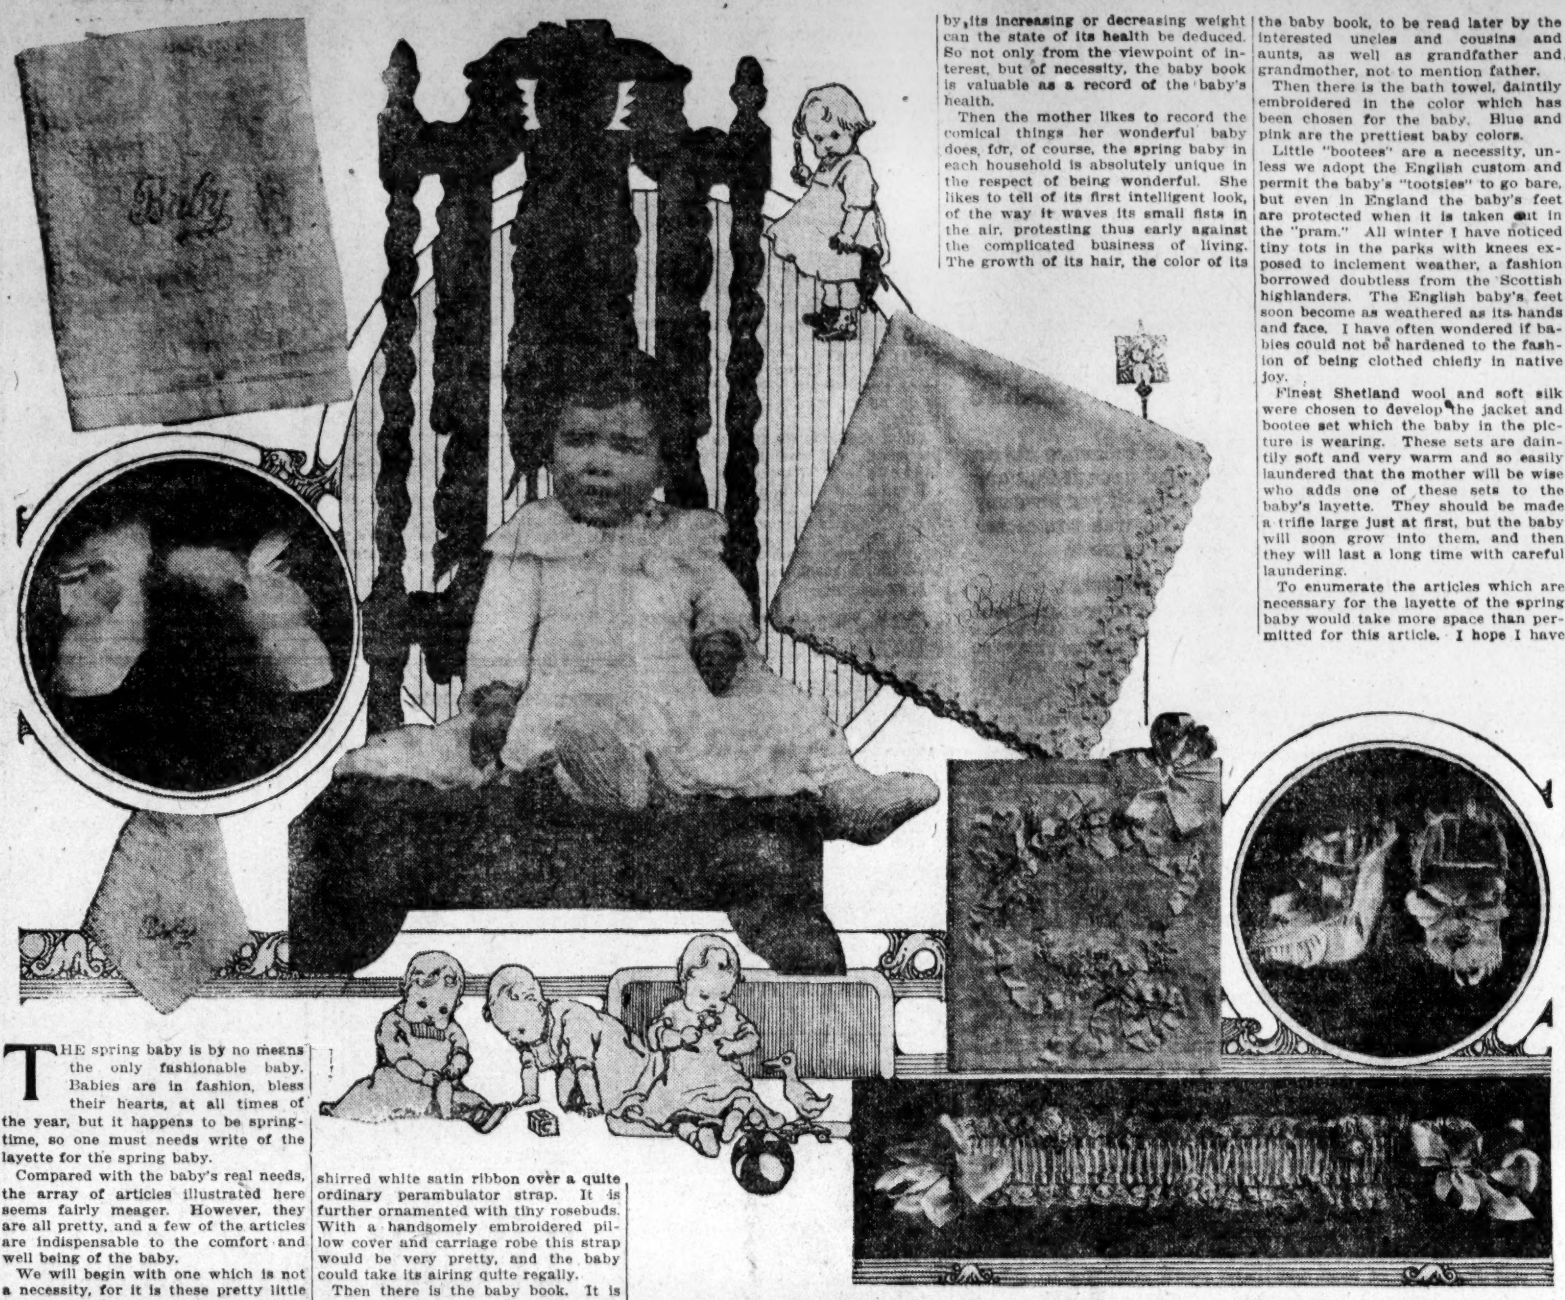
Metal threaded laces of wonderful design and texture are trimming some of the newest evening gowns. Many of these laces are shown on the newest millinery effect, also with results that are decidedly alluring and charming. Lace drapery and roses of lace, which is no more than an attempt to introduce the picturesque styles of the Chantilly laces into present day modes, are now in great demand.

A SUFFICIENT REASON.

He—They say, dear, that people who live together get in time to look exactly alike.

She—Then you may consider my refusal final.—New York Sun.

FASCINATING ARTICLES FOR THE USE OF THE SPRING BABY



THE spring baby is by no means the only fashionable baby. Babies are in fashion, bless their hearts, at all times of the year, but it happens to be springtime, so one must needs write of the layette for the spring baby.

Compared with the baby's real needs, the array of articles illustrated here seems fairly meager. However, they are all pretty, and a few of the articles are indispensable to the comfort and well being of the baby.

We will begin with one which is not a necessity, for it is these pretty little accessories that the expectant mother takes so much pride in fashioning. The fancy strap pictured at the right is of shirred white satin ribbon over a quite ordinary perambulator strap. It is further ornamented with tiny rosebuds. With a handsomely embroidered pillow cover and carriage robe this strap would be very pretty, and the baby could take its airing quite regally.

Then there is the baby book. It is interesting to preserve a record of the weight of the baby at birth, the increase of weight from day to day, for, of course, every up to date baby possesses a pair of scales, so that its weight may be watched closely since by its increasing or decreasing weight can the state of its health be deduced. So not only from the viewpoint of interest, but of necessity, the baby book is valuable as a record of the baby's health.

Then the mother likes to record the comical things her wonderful baby does, for, of course, the spring baby in each household is absolutely unique in the respect of being wonderful. She likes to tell of its first intelligent look, of the way it waves its small fists in the air, protesting thus early against the complicated business of living. The growth of its hair, the color of its eyes, the gifts it receives, the first time it babbles "papa" or "mamma," as the case may be—all these things go into the baby book, to be read later by the interested uncles and cousins and aunts, as well as grandfather and grandmother, not to mention father.

Then there is the bath towel, daintily embroidered in the color which has been chosen for the baby. Blue and pink are the prettiest baby colors.

Little "bootees" are a necessity, unless we adopt the English custom and permit the baby's "tootsies" to go bare, but even in England the baby's feet are protected when it is taken out in the "pram." All winter I have noticed tiny tots in the parks with knees exposed to inclement weather, a fashion borrowed doubtless from the Scottish highlanders. The English baby's feet soon become as weathered as its hands and face. I have often wondered if babies could not be hardened to the fashion of being clothed chiefly in native joy.

Finest Shetland wool and soft silk were chosen to develop the jacket and bootee set which the baby in the picture is wearing. These sets are daintily soft and very warm and so easily laundered that the mother will be wise who adds one of these sets to the baby's layette. They should be made a trifle large just at first, but the baby will soon grow into them, and then they will last a long time with careful laundering.

To enumerate the articles which are necessary for the layette of the spring baby would take more space than permitted for this article. I hope I have given one or two novel hints which the mother may be able to use.

Methodical Preparation For Spring Cleaning

THE time for spring cleaning comes round all too soon for the busy housewife who knows what it means to make the house sweet and fresh from top to bottom. It is a necessary undertaking, for the sunshine is going to show up all the dirt and dinginess, and also, alas, the wear and tear of the winter months. Valiantly she sets to work, for perhaps she alone knows how important it is to the well being of home and family.

In these days we, very rightly, do all we can to save ourselves and others every bit of unnecessary drudgery. When the time comes to face the necessity of a thorough and systematic cleaning think what you can do to make the process as light as possible and as little of a disturbance to the family. Those who are not responsible for it are apt to look upon it in the light of a private and personal grievance. They owe your cleaning a grudge in just the same way as you would owe them a grudge if they came with their work and lumbered up your kitchen with it.

The good housewife will see that the work of her department causes as little of a general upset as possible.

She must also remember that if she overworks herself for several days on end the "homey" atmosphere will suffer more than ever.

Your cleaning will not be a dreaded event if you make methodical plans and preparations. A large amount of the work can be done beforehand in bits. If you do all that can be done you will be surprised when the time comes how easily you can deal with the remainder.

All chimneys may be swept.

Heavy clothing, extra blankets and other articles belonging to midwinter can be looked over, cleaned and mended where necessary and stored with napthalene or camphor between their folds.

Old garments can be passed over to the poor or to rummage sales.

Drawers and cupboards can be cleaned and relined with fresh paper.

Stains may be removed from carpets or curtains, and various other oddments of renovation and repair can be done.

New curtains, if they are needed, can be made and chair covers washed.

If you do all these things in preparation you will find your spring cleaning less of a trial than it has ever been and none the less thorough.

WEAR A LOVE LOCK UPON YOUR CHEEK.

HAVE you seen the quaint love locks that the girls are wearing? Just in front of each ear is plastered a love lock that looks like an interrogation mark and certainly attracts attention to the girls, whether it adds to their beauty or not. It is preferably black or brown, and the blond will not secure as good an effect with her light hair.

Has Milady the Thoroughbred Look?

"LE style est l'homme," wrote the immortal Buffon over a century ago. But if style is the man, as applied to literature, then the epigram might be paraphrased applied to the world of woman and read "Le style est femme."

Of all the various styles cultivated by women the thoroughbred look is the most highly prized. Compounded of intelligence, good taste, thorough grooming and perhaps heredity, it is the only badge of class distinction that can be worn the world over, because it stands for the only true class differences—education, good taste and right living.

Given the fundamentals, it can be acquired, but never bought and applied. It is not a veneer, but a thoroughly "rubbed in" and "worked up" natural polish that shows the true grain and fiber of the virgin timber.

It knows no affections; consequently it is never languid nor disdainful, for intelligence cannot take a disdainful view of existence and is too keenly interested to be languid.

The thoroughbred look may not always excite admiration, but it never fails to exact respect. Admiration is sometimes dubious—respect, never.

White sables, pink pearls and real laces are not necessary to the thoroughbred look. It cannot survive ill chosen, mismated garments.

It has not even a nodding acquaintance with bedraggled willow plumes or tissue silk stockings on a slushy street. Neither does it recognize a half yard of brilliant cerise petticoat, filling the gap where a tailored skirt refuses to meet below the knees of its owner.

When it can afford only one pair of walking boots at a time it does not buy velvet or suede. When it has pretty, straight blond hair it refuses to frowzel it in imitation of Massie of the chorus.

The thoroughbred look is never self conscious. It can be regally oblivious alike to threadbare poverty and expensive gorgeousness. Once a garment is donned, whether it be an imported model or a pair of well worn, imported mended gloves, it becomes a subconscious, well controlled part of the wearer, for this hallmark of the elect is never found on the walking clothes racks one encounters every day who are either completely submerged by the dollar's worth of junk they carry around or left shriekingly disrobed by their too obvious consciousness of the worn spots in their toilets.

Is it a possession of value, this thoroughbred look? Yes—oh, yes! It can be worn to advantage at all times and in all places and need not be cast aside with the pearls of youth or the diamonds of prosperity. And it looks equally well in the gay garb of pleasure and the somber raiment of mourning, because it stands for things whose value cannot be computed in dollars or cents, months or years, laughter or [illegible]

PRACTICE ECONOMY AND TURN YOUR TABLECLOTHS.

HAVE you ever turned inward the outer edges of a half worn tablecloth? It is done exactly as a wide sheet is rejuvenated, and if a very fine seam is carefully felled down on the wrong side of the damask the joining will never show. Try it with the tablecloth which you had decided to cut up into napkins.

WHO IS TO BLAME FOR THE SLIT SKIRT?

Mrs. Styles—Well, dear, the dressmaker says it will take four yards of material for the dress, and it is $8.35 a yard.

Mr. Styles—I never can afford that, dear. Can't you economize on it some way?

"Why, yes. I can have it made with more slit."—Yonkers Statesman.

Kewpies Have Invaded Sartorial Domain

BOYS' PAJAMAS.

REALLY pajamas, with a really pocket, said pajamas bordered with the cunning kewpies, are a snappy novelty for boys' night wear. The pocket has one fat, cute, coy kewpie guarding its contents.

GIVE A CAKE A BAD NAME!

FOLLOWING is a recipe for devil's cake that is said to be a good one: Grate one-third of a cake of chocolate, pour over it one-half cupful of boiling water, add one teaspoonful of soda; let it stand while mixing cake. Take two cupfuls of sugar (brown), one-half cupful of butter, one-half cupful of sour milk, two eggs, two and one-half cupfuls of flour. Add the chocolate and beat well; then bake in layers. For the filling take two cupfuls of brown sugar, one cupful of sweet milk, butter the size of a walnut; then cook until it strings from the spoon. Flavor with vanilla.

The Eye Bath Good For Tired Nerves

OF course the best remedy for eye fatigue, which comes probably from straining the optic nerves or perhaps from bodily fatigue, would be repose—resting the eyes and taking things as comfortably as possible, indulging in an afternoon doze and keeping away as much as possible from rush and turmoil and overstrain. But this is impossible for most of us, and so we must treat our eyes externally to have them preserve their youthful strength and brightness.

The eye bath should be of distilled water or rainwater. A pinch of salt dissolved in the water is good, and better still is boric acid water administered by means of the little eyecup that fits over the eye.

Nothing is more soothing for the eyes than this bathing. You can feel the nerves of the eye responding to the treatment. To make the wash, dissolve a teaspoonful of boric acid in a quart of filtered or distilled water; then the eyecup is filled with this and each eye washed out in turn. Always wash the eyecup in clean water after bathing one eye before applying it to the other.

SMALL SEAMS AND HOW TO MAKE THEM.

WITH sheer materials in vogue small seams are imperative, and some people have difficulty in making them. Try this way:

Cut the material very smoothly and evenly. Hold the edges together and overcast them closely to the end. Turn them over, crease down to make them flat, then sew in the regular French, or double, seam fashion as close to the edge as possible, thus producing the smallest, neatest seam imaginable. Always use fine thread and a fine needle for the second seaming to obtain best results.

When any very soft, sheer material must be stitched on the machine, if it is not properly adjusted for the purpose, it is likely to pucker and cause no end of annoyance. You will have no difficulty if you will cut strips of thin manila wrapping paper or tissue paper, put it under the material and then proceed with the sewing.

VALUABLE HOUSEHOLD KINKS.

USE warm water to sprinkle starched clothes and the effect will be twice as satisfactory.

A painter's brush may be used to dislodge dust from cracks and crevices about the house.

Try removing mildew by soaking in a weak solution of chloride of lime, then rinsing in cold water.

Elasticity is restored to rubber by cooking it in one part ammonia and two parts water.

To clean morocco leather prepare a lather of soap in warm water and sponge well with this to remove the dirt; then rub over with a clean cloth dipped in the well beaten white of an egg and the leather will look like new again.

TANGO FROCK FOR THE TINY TANGO GIRL

A DANCING GOWN.

EVEN the tiny girl tangoes, and what she shall wear while indulging in this popular diversion is an important question. In this illustration we have a simple, though very lovely, answer to the question. The white lace princess slip is made to wear over pink or blue china silk, with a sash and rosette of either the pink or blue silk. Colored socks to match the slip and sash and shiny patent leather tango slippers complete the bewitching costume.

Intelligent Planning of Housework Saves Energy

IT will pay every housekeeper to go over the plans of her working department and the manner in which she covers her daily tasks in order to cut down wasted energies. No business man would think of working with his materials as scattered as are those of the majority of housekeepers. It is no wonder it is called a "daily grind." In most houses closets are too few and in inconvenient places. This difficulty may be overcome in the kitchen by a kitchen cabinet. If one cannot be afforded a good substitute may be made from packing boxes. The Teachers' college in New York improvised one that may be taken as a model, but handy persons may put one together by looking at the models that are kept in the stores or seen in catalogues.

Fatigue is caused by bending over low tables and sinks. One cannot change these poor arrangements in a rented house, but much comfort can be obtained by using high stools when ironing or dishwashing. When building a house these points should be planned by the housekeeper herself. The gas range has one advantage over the kitchen stove. It is usually the correct height for cooking. Washers, too, especially the kind with power attachments, are of the proper height.

Another great loss is in shifting from one job to another—for instance, in cleaning, sweep one room after another; then clean the windows from room to room; then dust and notice how much quicker the work is accomplished.

There should be a regular time for putting in supplies and a list kept of articles to be renewed. Frequently it means some part of the cooking is delayed, because a complete list was not made out for the marketman. Planning the bill of fare for several days or a week would obviate this trouble.

One model household, which, by the way, was the home of a woman who is internationally known as a political and domestic economist, had a typed chart of possible breakfast dishes hanging on the kitchen wall. By this means that meal was one of variety, especially as these dishes were planned to use the leftovers from dinner. The plans changed according to the seasons of the year; also savory suggestions for giving appetizing flavors were scheduled, so no indifferent maid or member of the family, if need be, could do other than offer a good breakfast at a minimum of time and labor.

In thus planning for efficiency it is well to cultivate observation and see how often two birds may be killed with one stone. Especially is this true of cooking. For instance, given ice, one may make twice the amount of pie crust. Steps may be saved by planning, in cleaning up the house, that everything to go downstairs should be placed on a chair at the landing on that floor. In fact, to take an inventory of one's efforts during the routine of housework will be a profitable thing for most housewives.

HONOR CONFEDERATE DEAD

Hundreds Attend Exercises at Oakdale Cemetery—Splendid Oration by T. C. Wooten, Esq.

The exercises in honor of the Confederate dead which were held at Oakdale cemetery, under the auspices of the Daughters of the Confederacy, Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock were attended by hundreds of people from the city. The orator was T. C. Wooten, Esq., of this city, who made an able address. Special music for the occasion was rendered by a large choir, composed of well known Wilmington singers.

The veterans, clad in the immortal grey, marched from the lodge house to the enclosure at the Confedrate monument, where the exercises were conducted. The Daughters of the Confederacy attended the services in a body and occupied seats within the enclosure. The members of the Wilmington Light Infantry, dressed in their uniforms of olive drab forming a striking contrast to the grey of the soldiers of the sixties, marched from the W. L. I. armory in a body and following the exercises fired two volleys over the graves of the dead veterans. The Hanover Councert Band furnished martial music, suitable to the occasion.

Adjutant L. Leon acted as chief marshal and master of ceremonies. He introduced the speaker of the day in a short address in which he paid a beautiful tribute to the Daughters of the Confederacy. In a few brief years the remaining veterans will have answered the last roll call but it is a blessed thought to know that their memory will be kept green by the tender hands of the Daughters, he said.

Mr. Wooten in an able address gave succinctly and logically the basic reasons for the South's secession from the Union. He explained that his purpose in discussing this subject was that the Daughters of the Confederacy might teach their children that the South was right in seceding from the Union and that they are right now.

"The South did not primarily cause the Civil War," he declared, "and the brave soldiers of the Confederacy did not die to perpetuate slavery but because our constitutional rights had been usurped and our personal liberties had been taken away. It was only when our home land had been invaded that we struck back with a ferociousness, unparalleled in history.

"It is conceded by our northern brethren that they caused the war," he said. He showed that the theory of the South that the State was sovereign was not new and that it was not a new question in European history. He cited many examples in proof of this assertion, going back to the 14th century when the Swiss canton seceded and formed a confederacy. He gave other examples which showed clearly that European countries regarded secession as perfectly proper whenever a State felt itself justified in doing so.

He then launched into a masterly discussion of the formation of the Federal Constitution. In the treaty of 1783 the colonies were regarded as sovereign States, and this right was never conceded nor engulfed in the Federal constitution, said the speaker. Madison, Jefferson and even Alexander Hamilton never disputed this fact, he said.

He next cited several authorities in substantiation of the statement that the States were regarded as sovereign, among these being John Marshall, the great jurist, who declared in an opinion delivered while he was chief justice of the Supreme Court, that the States were separate and independent both before and after the Confederation. The speaker next showed how the different States in ratifying the constitution had expressly reserved all power not expressly delegated to the Federal government and that they did not contemplate giving up their sovereignty. Webster, the greatest lawyer and orator of his day, in his celebrated speech at Capon Spring, Va., had expressed the same opinion, having been won to this view by the masterly arguments of Calhoun, the great South Carolina statesman, Mr. Wooten declared.

The South never proved traitor to the great organic law of the land but there are many instances where the North has done so, among these being the passing of the fugitive slave law, the speaker continued. Neither was the South responsible for the introduction of slavery nor for its recognition in the constitution, said he. "We liberated more slaves in the South than the North ever owned," he declared. Lincoln justified slavery even after South Carolina had seceded the speaker said, in his famous statement, "I have no purpose to interfere with slavery where it now exists. I believe I have no right to do so nor do I have any inclination to do so."

In conclusion the speaker paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of the brave Confederate soldiers who gave their lives for their homes and for their children. It was an address full of facts of interest to every student of history and to everyone who holds dear that priceless heritage left by the devoted sons of the South.

Always beautiful, Oakdale cemetery never presented a prettier scene than it did Sunday afternoon with the great throngs of people who came to take part in the exercises. The graves of the veterans that have crossed over the river to rest in the shade of the trees were decorated with laurel wreaths by the Daughters of the Confederacy. The Confederate monument was mounted by the Stars and Bars, while around were clusters of smaller flags.

Following the address Adjutant Leon read the names of those who died on the field of battle from '61 to '65, and also the names of the veterans who have died since the last Memorial Day exercises. The names of those who have died during the year are T. O. Bunting, R. G. Rankin, Wm. H. Green, John Barry and J. W. Vernelson.

Sick Women Made Well

Reliable evidence is abundant that women are constantly being restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The many testimonial letters that we are continually publishing in the newspapers—hundreds of them—are all genuine, true and unsolicited expressions of heartfelt gratitude for the freedom from suffering that has come to these women solely through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money could not buy nor any kind of influence obtain such recommendations; you may depend upon it that any testimonial we publish is honest and true—if you have any doubt of this write to the women whose true names and addresses are always given, and learn for yourself.

Read this one from Mrs. Waters:

CAMDEN, N.J.—"I was sick for two years with nervous spells, and my kidneys were affected. I had a doctor all the time and used a galvanic battery, but nothing did me any good. I was not able to go to bed, but spent my time on a couch or in a sleeping-chair, and soon became almost a skeleton. Finally my doctor went away for his health, and my husband heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me some. In two months I got relief and now I am like a new woman and am at my usual weight. I recommend your medicine to every one and so does my husband."—Mrs. TILLIE WATERS, 1135 Knight St., Camden, N.J.

And this one from Mrs. Haddock:

UTICA, OKLA.—"I was weak and nervous, not able to do my work and scarcely able to be on my feet. I had backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, trouble with my bowels, and inflammation. Since taking the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am better than I have been for twenty years. I think it is a wonderful medicine and I have recommended it to others."—Mrs. MARY ANN HADDOCK, Utica, Oklahoma.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman continue to suffer without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months.

I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years.

SEWERAGE WORK HALTED

Mr. Jno D Bellamy Claims Property at Foot of Wooster Street.

Claiming that the property had never been dedicated to the city, and that it belonge dto him, Mr. Jno. D. Bellamy Saturday halted the progress of the laying of a sewer on Wooster street from Surry to the river. The forces of the American Light & Water Company, laying the sewer extension, were inclined at first to resentt the interference, and for time it appeared that there might be a personal encounter between the foreman, Mr. H. W. Hengst, but this was avoided, and the work was halted pending an investigation of the title to the property by the city engineer.

ASKS RICHMOND POLICE TO HELP LOCATE SON.

Wilmington Woman Anxious Over Boy's Continued Silence.

Richmond, Va., May 9.—The police today received a letter from Mrs. Nettie Street, of 1015 North Third street, Wilmington, N. C., seeking information about her son, Roy Street, 17 years old, who left Wilmington for Richmond April 3rd, last, and has not been heard from since.

She described her son as being of light complexion, with light hair and blue eyes, and wearing a blue suit with long trousers, light brown hat and tan shoes. She says he can operate a motion picture machine and may be located in some show place of that sort.

Mrs. Street describes herself as being heartbroken over her failure to hear from him, and she fears that some harm has befallen him.

ITCHING IRRITATION.

Worst Form of Skin Trouble Quickly Relieved by Inexpensive Treatment.

When you suffer with any skin trouble, even though the itching seems unbearable, do not think that it is necessary to use some disgusting, greasy ointment. Try Hokara, a pure and simple cream, that is guaranteed to contain no grease or acids and which is so cleanly that it does not soil the linen.

Its power to instantly relieve any irritation of the skin and make it soft, white and beautiful is almost miraculous.

Not only do minor skin troubles like pimples, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., quickly disappear, but the worst ulcers or cases of salt rheum or eczema are cleansed and healed by this wonderful skin food.

In order that any one may try Hokara at small expense, the J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co. Drug Store are selling in a liberal-sized jar at 25c, and in addition guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not do all that is claimed for it.

The Spirit of Progress

During the last few years Wilmington has made splendid progress in many directions—her population has increased rapidly; her streets have been improved and beautified; her car lines have been extended; many handsome buildings have been erected; her school system has been added to and improved; and business enterprise has prospered.

A natural and commendable desire for better things has filled our people with a spirit of progress and improvement.

We must keep the good work up. Every man, woman and child should take a part in this forward movement. This bank can help you do your share. Come to see us.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

TRADING IN COTTON QUIET

Market Did Not Open Until 11 in Morning as Mark of Respect to Dead Marines.

New York, May 11.—The cotton market did not open until 11 a. m. today as a mark of respect to the American marines killed at Vera Cruz, and trading was very quiet during the short session, while prices fluctuated within a range of 7 to 8 points. The close was barely steady, net one point higher to two points lower.

Relatively firm cables and prospects for unsettled weather in the western belt seemed to be responsible for an opening advance of 3 to 7 points. There was some local buying at the start as first prices were hardly up to the showing of the cables but reports of favorable weather over Sunday restricted demand and the market soon turned easier under liquidation or selling for a turn.

The report of a Southern crop expert, indicating that conditions had been favorable over 90 per cent. of the cotton belt during the past week, probably encouraged local offerings. Moreover the detailed weather reports indicated generally very good conditions in the belt for the past 48 hours. After selling about one to three points net lower however, the market was steadied by covering and closed about net unchanged on the more active positions.

May was relatively quiet and steady and people around the ring they saw nothing in the day's operation to indicate any larger remaining interest in that delivery. It was rumored that part of the cotton taken up on the first May notices had been retendered and taken back by the former holders.

Cotton futures closed barely steady.

DRY GOODS MARKET.

New York, May 11.—The cotton goods market was steadier today and the buying was a little better. Raw silk for new crop delivery was offered at concessions of 7½ cents per pound. Cloaking and cape fabrics for early delivery are in good call.

GAMBLING IS CHARGED.

Capiases Served on Local Men Yesterday Morning.

Capiases based on indictments returned by the grand jury charging gambling were served Saturday morning on Messrs. Percy W. Wells, Harry Pyle and Geo. Waite, and they were placed under bond of $50 each for their appearance at the next term of court. Capiases were also issued for W. J. Kerr and A. J. Lewis, charged with keeping disorderly houses.

The next term of court, a two weeks civil term, will by agreement of members of the bar, begin Wednesday, May 20th, instead of Monday, the 18th, as scheduled, on account of the fact that Federal court will be in session probably through Tuesday, May 19th.

Knots In Harness.

To loosen knots in harness, straps, cords, ropes, or even shoestrings, hammer the knot on all sides with a mallet or a piece of wood, turning the strap or rope around, then dip in boiling water, holding it there a minute or two, according to size of knot to be loosened. Before doing so add a little soap to the water, then with a sharply pointed instrument pick the knot loose. It can often be done with the fingers. Knots that have been pulled in harness or ropes for months or years can be loosened readily.—Exchange.

Overstocked.

Hubby was evidently worried, and wifey was trying to cheer him up.

"Cheer up, John, and don't worry," she said. "It doesn't do any good to borrow trouble."

"Borrow trouble," echoed her husband. "Great Caesar's ghost! I ain't borrowing trouble; I've got it to lend!"—Chicago News.

Newspaper consolidation goes on apace, the latest example being the absorption of the Charlotte Chronicle by the Charlotte News. Charlotte is a husky town, but it will not support two afternoon papers of the excellence that the News and the Chronicle both maintained. Proprietor Dowd is to be felicitated on having the afternoon field to himself. The News will meet Charlotte's afternoon newspaper needs. The Observer will be better for having the Chronicle off its hands, for the afternoon sheet must have been conducted at a loss.—Raleigh News and Observer.

STOCK MARKET WAS STRONG

Strength Prevailed in All Parts of the Market—Trading Was Quiet but Buying Steady.

New York, May 11.—Strength prevailed today in all parts of the stock market. Trading was quiet but buying continued steady and most of the representative shares registered substantial gains. The exchange was closed until 11 o'clock on account of the services here in memory of the Vera Cruz dead.

The speculative situation was unchanged. There was not one item in the day's news with important bearing on financial affairs with the exception of the engagement of $3,000,000 gold for shipment to Europe. At another time the loss of this gold might have affected the market adversely, but with circumstances as they are, it was without influence owing to the abundance of money here and the slowness of demand.

Demand sterling rose to 4.8815, the highest since December of 1909. It was understood by international bankers that the European demand for gold was still keen and that Paris was in the market for $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 more. Today's engagements of gold exhausted the supply of gold bars in the assay office here and it would be necessary to have higher exchange rates to make shipment of coin profitable.

European advices were pessimistic and American stocks were lower abroad. London sold perhaps 10,000 shares here. The general supply, however, was small. A point of strength was the elimination of weak spots which have burdened the general list recently. Missouri Pacific, one of these soft spots, showed strength today, on the brighter prospects for meeting the road's financial requirements.

In bonds the movement was uncertain. Total sales $1,518,000. United States 2s coupon sold 5-8c higher, but call prices of all issues were unchanged.

REACHING THE SPOT

It Has Been Done, So Scores of Wilmington Citizens Say.

To get rid of an aching back,
The sharp twinges,
The tired-out feelings,
You must reach the spot—get at the cause.
In many cases 'tis the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.
Wilmington citizens testify.

Mrs. M. E. Bordeaux, 510 S. Second St., Wilmington, N. C., says: "I suffered from dull pains in the small of my back and some days I could hardly get about to do my housework. Kidney weakness caused me great annoyance and I knew that a kidney medicine was needed. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills, I at once got a supply at Bellamy's Drug Store, and they restored me to good health. Another of my family has also taken Doan's Kidney Pills with benefit. I willingly confirm my former endorsement of this remedy."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Bordeaux had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

HEROISM OF DEAD HONORED BY NATION

mance of duty, which is laid upon us as well as upon them.

"Duty is not an uncommon thing, gentlemen. Men are performing it in ordinary walks of life all around us all the time and make great sacrifices to perform it. What gives men liko these peculiar attention? Not because they did their duty but because duty had nothing to do with them of their own personal and particular interests.

Gave Lives For Others.

"They did not give their lives for themselves; they gave their lives for us because we called upon them, as a nation, to perform an unexpected duty. That is the way in which men grow distinctive, and that is the only way—by serving some one else than themselves. And what greater thing could you serve than a nation such as this we love and are proud of?

"Are you sorry for these lads? Are you sorry for the way they will remembered? Does it not quicken your pulse to think of them? I hope God none of you may join the list, but if you do you will join an immortal company.

"So while you are profoundly sorrowful, and while there goes out of our hearths, a very deep and affection ate sympathy to friends and relatives of these—who for the rest of their lives shall mourn them through with a touch of pride—we know why we do not go away from this occasion cast down but with our heads lifted, and our eyes on the future of this country, with absolute confidence of how it will be worked out; not only the more vague future of this country but the immediate future.

We have gone to Mexico to serve mankind, if we can find out the way. we do not want to fight the Mexicans; we want to serve the Mexicans, if we can because we know how e ould like to be freed and how we ould like to be served if there were friends standing by ready to serve us.

Honor To Die In Service.

"A war of aggression is not a war in which it is a proud thing to die, but a war of service is a thing in which it is a proud thing to die. Notice that these men were of our blood, men of our American blood, which is not drawn from any one country; which is not drawn from any one stock; which is not drawn from any one language of the modern world; but from everywhere people have sent their sons, their brothers and their daughters to this country in order to make that great compounded nation, which consists of all the sturdy elements and all the best element of the whole globe.

"Listen to this list with a profound interest at the mixture of names, for the names bear the marks of several national stocks from which these men came, but they are not Irishment, nor Germans, nor Frenchmen, nor Hebrews, any more. They were not when they went to Vera Cruz. They were Americans, every one of them, and were no different in their Americanism because of the stock from which they came. Therefore, they were, in a peculiar sense, of our blood and they proved it by showing that they were of our spirit, that no matter what their derivation, no matter where their people came from, they though and wished and did things that were American and the flag under which they served was a flag in which all the blood of mankind is united to make a f[illegible] nation.

"War, gentlemen, is only a short of 'War, gentlemen, is only a sort of dramatic symbol of a thousand forms of duty. I never went into battle, I never was under fire, but I fancy that there are some things just as hard to do as to go under fire.

Sneers Like Shots.

I fancy that it is just as hard to do your duty when men are sneering at you as when they are shooting at you. When they shoot at you they can only take your natural life. When they sneer at you, they can wound your heart. And men who are brave enough, steadfast enough, steady in their principles enough to go about their duty with no regard to their fellow men, no matter whether there are hisses or cheers—men who can do what Rudyard Kipling, in one of his poems wrote:

"'Meet with triumph and disaster,
"'And treat these two imposters
just the same.'

"These are men of which a nation may be proud.

"Morally speaking, disaster and triumph are imposters. The cheers of the moment are not what a man ought to think about, but the verdict of his conscience and of the consciences of mankind. So when I look at you I feel as if I also and we all were enlisted men—not enlisted in your particular branch of the service, but enlisted to serve the country no matter what may come, what though we may waste our lives in the arduous endeavor. We are expected to put the utmost energy of every power that we have into the services of our fellow men, never sparing ourselves, not condescending to think of what is going to happen to ourselves, but ready, if need be, to go to the utter length of complete sacrifice. As I stand and look at you today I think o fthe spirits that have gone from us, and I know the road is clearer for the future. These boys have shown us the way and it is easier to wolk on it, because they have gone before and shown us the way.

..ay Goy grant to all of us that vision of patriotic service which awaits us."

ence, according to latest advices.

Disturbing elements continued to arouse interest throughout the day. Gen. Funston at Vera Cruz was appealed to by the Brazilian minister at Mexico City to release some South Americans, including three Brazilians, who had been arrested and are awaiting there trial for sniping American soldiers in Vera Cruz harbor. An appeal was made to Secretary Bryan by the mediating envoys on behalf of Gen. Huerta because of reports that American forces had seize a Mexican lighthouse on Lobos Island off Tampico, an act which Huerta's agents maintained was aggressive and in violation of the armistice.

This government maintained that Huerta had violated the armistice in ordering lighthouses closed on the Pacific coast to the peril of shipping. From Tampico, where Mexican Federals and Constitutionalists have been preparing for a sanguinary struggle, came rumblings of battle, while reports that Huerta's strength was waning in Mexico City and that the bandit leader Zapata was about to attack the capital from the south, served to arouse diplomatic agents of foreign nations lest their people in Mexico City might be in immediate danger of persecution or death.

Late in the day Secretary Bryan, hastening to the Argentine legation where he discussed for half an hour with the mediators. None would discuss the conference, but it was learned that disturbing reports from Mexico City together with disputed points that had arisen over the armistice had been discussed.

Officials Indignant.

State Department officials were indignant when it became known that Vice Consul Silliman and his clerk, Joseph A. Marchani, as well as several other Americans hau been prisoners of the Federal commander at Saltillo and that the consul still is held despite urgent representations for his release made by the Brazilian minister in Mexico City. Late dispatches were accepted as indicating that the Mexican war minister's assurances to the French charge last week that neither Consul Silliman, no member of the embassy staff and no Americans in Saltillo had been in danger," was intended only to deceive State Department officials as to the real state of affairs at Saltillo.

Late in the day Consul Canada reported the arrival of Consular Clerk Marchani in Vera Cruz. The clerk informed Mr. Canada that before he was released from custody of the Mexicans, he was marched under guard from the jail to the consulate and compelled at the point of a revolver to open the safe and surrender to the Federal commander all the consular records and all valuable including money and a quantity of jewelry left there for safe-keeping. It is not known here how many Americans were imprisoned, but word was received that all had been released except Consul Silliman, and that these Saltillo refugees are part of a band of 100 who left Mexico City for Vera Cruz today. There is nothing officials here can do to expedite the release of Consul Silliman. They merely can await the good offices of the Brazilian minister, who gives assurances that he is doing everything possible to obtain his liberation.

First Official News.

First official news of the landing of American sailors on Lobos Islands reached the Navy Department late tonight in a cablegram from Rear Admiral Mayo, stating that the Mexican keepers deserted the great lighthouse on the islands and that the destroyer tender Dixie was maintaining it for the "benefit of navigation."

Admiral Mayo's report responding to the Navy Department's request for immediately informing concerning the incident complained of by the Huerta government to mediators, said:

"Lobos Island has not been occupied. The Dixie and some destroyers anchored there and other vessels have coaled there from a collier. The keepers of Lobos Island light deserted it and the Dixie is maintaining it for the benefit of navigation. I understand that the destroyers have had occasional landing parties ashore."

Silliman Still Imprisoned.

Washington, May 11.—American Consul Silliman still is imprisoned at Saltillo, according to a later dispatch from the Brazilian minister in Mexico City who reported to the State Department that he has made the strongest representations possible for the release of the American. Mr. Silliman's clerk, Mr. Marchani, has been set at liberty and left for Vera Cruz yesterday.

METHODISTS CREATE TWO NEW CONFERENCES

view of the seeming severance of all connection with Vanderbilt under the decision of the Tennessee Supreme Court, they take steps to establish a new theological school. The memorial made no reference as to location.

A difference in the committee over the personnel of the commission to act in an advisory capacity with the colored Methodist church, resulted in that matter being returned to the committee in charge when it came before the conference. The original report favored naming the heads of connectional boards as the commission. A minority, however, recommended that the matter be placed in the hands of the home department of the mission board.

Vudor Porch Shades

Why build an extra room? Equip your porch with Vudor Porch Shades—then eat and sleep in it. Let in air and light, yet keep your porch cool and private. Meals will mean hunger. The air, the great nerve-doctor, brings deep, unbroken sleep, which soothes nerves and bathes them to health.
